That the legislature of each state be, and they are hereby also required, to cause the said account to be transmitted and delivered to Congress, on or before the first day of March, 1784; and that Congress will, on the second day of March, 1784, or at their next sitting thereafter, appoint a grand committee, consisting of a member present from each state, to take into their consideration the said returns, any nine of whom concurring, shall make a just and true estimate of the value of all the lands in each of the United States, granted to or surveyed for any person, and of the buildings and improvements thereon, and shall report such estimate to Congress, to be subject only to their approbation or rejection. That the said estimate, when approved by Congress, shall be a rule for adjusting all accounts between the United States and the individual states; that is, each state shall be debited for its just quota or proportion, on the principle aforesaid, of the money theretofore advanced or paid, and of the amount in value of the supplies furnished by all the states for the service of the United States, and credited for the money advanced, and the amount in value of the supplies furnished by such state, for the service of the United States. That the said estimate shall operate for a term not exceeding five years, as a rule for apportioning on the several states, the sums which Congress shall from time to time deem necessary, and require to be raised for supporting the public credit and contingent expences; and that the money which shall be paid from time to time by any state into the continental treasury, on account of such quota or apportionment, shall be duly passed to the credit of such state, on the said account.
