PREFATORY NOTE

In the year 1780 the difficulties which beset the Continental Congress were almost overwhelming. On January 10, the Board of War reported that, in spite of the necessities of the troops, no clothing could be bought, because there was no money to pay for it; on March 10, the Board of Treasury said that the commissary general of issues had announced that there was not bread enough on hand to feed the army for ten days longer; on April 4, a committee reported: "There is no money in the Treasury and scarce any provisions in the public magazines." The currency had depreciated to such a point that forty dollars of continental money had not the purchasing power of one specie dollar. An alarming note from the Minister of France was read, on January 28, setting forth the impending danger of armed mediation between America and Great Britain, and that the mediator would be certain to insist upon the retention by Great Britain of such territory as she then held as the basis of peace. Nevertheless, on June 21, Congress was obliged to inform the states that they had failed to furnish any of the 25,000 men who, it had promised the King of France, would be in the field to cooperate with the forces which he was sending over. On August 3, came a representation from the general officers, in their own and the soldiers’ behalf, that they were not paid, and that no attention was given to their demands. On May 12, Charleston fell; on August 16, news was received of Gates’s defeat at Camden; on September 30, despatches arrived announcing Arnold’s treason.
Nevertheless, the Congress struggled on, meeting the disasters which surrounded it as best it could. On March 18, it agreed to recommend to the states to call in the old continental bills of credit, to be destroyed and replaced by a new currency, issued on the funds of the individual states pledged by the faith of the United States; the following month it despatched a committee to headquarters, to concert with the Commander in Chief measures for improving the condition of the army. The new bank was recognized June 22, and made an auxiliary to continental financial arrangements; on July 15, the quartermaster's department was reorganized; September 25, the inspecting and mustering department; September 30, the general hospital. The dereliction of the states in furnishing their quotas was brought to their attention by a forcible appeal, on April 24; the contending parties in the Vermont controversy were afforded a new opportunity to present their claims, by the resolution of June 9; the ratification of the Articles of Confederation was brought nearer, by the resolution of September 6, urging Virginia and Maryland to conclude an agreement on the subject of the western lands, that question being the obstacle to Maryland's acceptance of the confederation.

Efforts to obtain for the United States recognition in the family of nations were continued. On June 20, John Adams was commissioned to negotiate a loan in Holland; on December 29, to make a treaty of amity and commerce with that country. In making overtures for an alliance with Spain, John Jay was instructed, October 4 and 17, to insist upon the right of free navigation of the Mississippi River by Americans, and out of this important action grew the acquisition of Louisiana twenty years later. On December 19, Dana was commissioned to open friendly relations with Russia. John Adams was instructed, October 18, that the only condition upon which a truce with Great Britain could be accepted was the recognition of the absolute independence of the United States. On October 8 occurred the victory at King's Mountain. Disordered as our affairs were, and even desperate in some directions, they were not hopeless. It became more apparent, the longer the struggle lasted, that the outcome would be independence, and the tone of Congress during the year shows that no other prospect was entertained by that body.

The most voluminous record of the Continental Congress is that for the year 1779. There is a slight diminution in the extent of the papers pertaining to 1780, and after that year there is a steady decline. The volumes following the present issue will not, therefore, be as bulky as the issues of the past few years have been.

The plan of editing which my predecessor, Mr. Worthington Chauncey Ford, elaborated has been followed carefully, because it would be intolerable to have a change made after half the volumes have been issued, and because it is manifestly the best system which could be devised for the purpose of presenting the journals clearly. Committee and Board reports are inserted; the location of letters, petitions, memorials and other minor papers is given, but, as it would swell the publication beyond all reason if they were printed, their text is omitted.

Mr. Ford kindly left for my use the notes which he had gathered, and he has cheerfully assisted me with his advice as the work has progressed.

Miss Emily B. Mitchell, an assistant in the Division, has coöperated, in compiling the volumes, with intelligence and skill.

So it passed in the negative.

A motion was then made by Mr. [Robert R.] Livingston, seconded by Mr. [Roger] Sherman.

Adjourned to 10 o’Clock to Morrow.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1780

A report from the Board of War was read, recommending the advance of a sum of money in specie to the prisoners who are in possession of the enemy;

AT A BOARD OF WAR, January 4th, 1780.

Present, Col Pickering, Mr Peters, Col Grayson.

The Board having taken into consideration, the memorial of sundry officers of the American army, at present in captivity on Long Island, in the State of New York, respecting a farther allowance of subsistence, also the letters of Col Beatty Commissary General of prisoners, and sundry other papers, beg leave to report. That it appears to the Board, that accidental preferences have been given in some instances to particular officers, owing as well to local circumstances, as to the want of a certain ratio, by which the subsistence of each respective claimant might be ascertained agreeable to the length of time he had been in captivity.
January, 1780

It appears farther to the Board, that twenty six officers taken at Fort Montgomery the 6th of October 1777, fourteen taken between the 6th of October 1777, and May 1778, and seventeen taken the 22nd of August 1777 at Staten Island, have received the sum of thirty two pounds New York money, more than the memorialists who were captured about the same period of time. That moreover those who were on parole upon Long Island before the arrival of the Philadelphia prisoners at New York, have received an allowance of two dollars a week for their board, of which those confined in Philadelphia had not the benefit.

Resolved, Therefore, That as Congress mean to extend their care and attention without distinction to all their officers who have the misfortune to be captured by the Enemy, the sum of £4194 New York money in specie be placed in the hands of Col Beatty Com General of prisoners, out of which he be directed to pay to each of the memorialists the sum of thirty two pounds like money, and the farther sum of to the same persons respectively, to be computed at the rate of two dollars a week, from the time of their being made prisoners, until their board was paid by the public.

That a farther sum of money in specie equal to £1493 N York currency be put into the hands of Col Beatty for the purpose of levelling all the officers, agreeable to the different terms of their Captivity, to the end that each individual may according to his circumstances participate of an equal share of the Public provision.

And whereas it hath been represented to Congress, that a farther sum of money is requisite for all the officers in Captivity, to enable them to purchase Clothing, and other necessaries for immediate use.

Resolved, That the sum of £9332 New York currency, in specie be advanced to the Commissary Gen of prisoners, which he be directed to distribute among all the officers on parole with the Enemy, and that the consideration of any farther allowance, or comparative preference be postponed to some future period.¹

¹This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, IV, folio 5. A copy of the report was read February 28 (see post on that date) and is on folio 159.
On which a motion was made by Mr. [John] Mathews, seconded by Mr. [James] McLene,¹

That a warrant issue on Gibbs, Parker and Blake, commissioners of the continental loan office, for the State of South Carolina, for two hundred thousand dollars, in favour of William Palfrey, paymaster general, to be transmitted to Joseph Clay, deputy paymaster general in the southern department, for the supply of the military chest there; the said deputy paymaster general is to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of William Palfrey, paymaster general, for two hundred thousand dollars, for the use of his department; for which he is to be accountable.

The Board having taken in consideration the memorial of Francis Hopkinson, Esqr., Treasurer of Loans referred to them by Congress on the 31st ult. beg leave further to report the following resolution:

¹ This motion, in the writing of John Mathews, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, IV, folio 23.

his trouble in signing the bills of exchange ordered to be drawn by the resolution of the 23rd of November last, in keeping

Present Mr. Peters, Col. Grayson.
The Board having taken into consideration the memorial of Col. Nathaniel Gist, and a letter from Lieut. Kelly, respecting an allowance for their trouble in going to the Cherokee Country by order of his Excellency the Commander in Chief—are of opinion, that as this service was out of the line of duty of continental officers, and which they were not obliged to execute in virtue of their commissions, they ought to receive reasonable compensations which it seems is alleged was promised by the General before they would undertake to do the business.

Therefore the Board beg leave to recommend, That it be Resolved, That Col. Nath. Gist be paid the sum of five thousand dollars for his trouble and services, and the hazard he run in going twice to the Cherokee nation, to treat with them by order of the Commander in Chief.

Journals of Congress

At a Board of War, Jan'y 7th 1780.

Present Col Pickering, Mr Peters, Col Grayson.

The board having taken into consideration the letter from Major Gen' Lincoln of Dec'r the 2d 1779, referred to them by Congress, beg leave to report,

That so much of Gen' Lincoln's letter as relates to money, be referred to the Treasury board.

With respect to the 500 dollars to be paid by the Quarter Master General under the resolution of August the 12th 1778 to such officers authorized to be in the field on horse back; who shall have their horses killed in action, the board are of opinion, that however adequate this sum might be at the time of making the resolve, yet at present, it is on account of the great depreciation of the money—by no means equal to the object Congress had in view, and therefore recommend,

Resolved, That, every officer in the army of the United States, whose duty requires his being on horse back in time of action, be allowed a sum not exceeding the average price given at the time in the department, or place where the accident shall happen for horses purchased for private dragoons, as a compensation for any horse he shall have killed in battle. This resolution to have retrospect as far as the 1st of January 1779 and the quarter master general or his deputy is hereby authorized to pay the value of such horses, not exceeding the said price, to the respective sufferers, on the facts being properly authenticated.

In regard to the Georgia Regiments, and the Officers of the Gallies and of the light Dragoons who are on Continental establishment—the board are of opinion and beg leave to report,

Resolved, That the four Georgia regiments be reformed, and no more officers retained in the service than are necessary for two regiments;

That the commanding officer of the Southern army establish some equitable rule for the arrangement of the said officers; and such as are left out of the arrangement be deemed supernumeraries, agreeably to the rules adopted in the main army, and entitled to the benefits allowed by the resolution of the 24 November, 1778;

That such of the officers as are retained in service shall be employed, until the regiment can be recruited, in such way as the said commanding officer shall deem most conducive to the public interest;

That the Georgia officers of the Gallies and of the light dragoons who are on continental establishment be considered as supernumeraries.

The board would have proposed reducing the Georgia regiments to one, agreeably to the regulation of the late Committee of arrangement, were it not for the singular circumstances attending them at this time from the operations of the Enemy in that State, and a hope that an African regiment may be raised for one of the corps of officers.
The principal circumstance we allude to, is the distress that must attend the reduced Officers, at present expatriated, and we think it would be impolitic at this time to hazard their disgust. Yet the reduction to two regiments we conceive may not be difficult, as numbers of the Officers belong to other States who could with less inconvenience quit the service.¹

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

The Board of Treasury having according to order reconsidered their report of the 27 ult. on the account of Benjamin Randolph beg leave to report the following resolution:

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Benjamin Randolph, of Philadelphia, for four thousand, three hundred and sixty three dollars and 21/90 for the use of his house, and sundry articles of furniture, from the 14th of December, 1778, to the 25 of March, 1779, and for sundry necessaries furnished to Mr. [John] Jay, late President of Congress while the said house was occupied by him.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Jesse Brown, for three thousand, one hundred and sixty dollars and 45/90, the balance of his account of expenses in conducting Mrs. Huntington, wife of the Honorable the President from Norwich in Connecticut to Philadelphia to be charged to the contingent expenses of to be charged to the United States.¹

A report from the Board of Admiralty was read; Whereupon

Board of Admiralty, 5th Jany., 1780.

The board beg leave to represent to Congress that application being made to the Navy board for the pay of fifteen Marines enlisted during the war and doing Garrison duty, think themselves intitled to the same allowance as that given to the army by a resolve of Congress of the 18th of August last, which is submitted to Congress for their directions thereon.²

Resolved, That the marines of the navy of the United States, whilst doing garrison duty, be allowed the same subsistence monies as is allowed to the officers and soldiers in the line of the army by the resolution of Congress of 18 August, 1779.

A motion was made by Mr. [Roger] Sherman, seconded by Mr. [Nathaniel] Peabody, relative to the additional battalions:

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of War.

A motion was made by Mr. [Robert R.] Livingston, seconded by Mr. [John] Penn, Ordered, That the consideration thereof be postponed till Monday next,

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of E. Blaine, commissary general, for two hundred thousand dollars, for the use of his department, and for which he is to be accountable.

A letter was read, signed Charles Lee, but not in his handwriting, in the words following:

"BEVERLEY COUNTY,

Sir, I understand that it is in contemplation of Congress on the principle of economy to strike me out of their service. Congress must know very little of me, if they suppose that I would accept of their money since the confirmation of the wicked and infamous sentence which was passed upon me. I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES LEE.

Excuse my not writing in my own hand, as it is wounded.

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

A letter, of this day, from Charles Pettit, was read:¹

A letter, of 10th, from the Board of War, was read, enclosing a letter, of 5, from Asa Worthington: ¹

Ordered, That the same be referred to the committee of the 17th December, for estimating the supplies to be furnished by the several states.

A letter, of 8, from the Board of War, was read, respecting the continuing the purchase of cloathing:

War Office, January 8, 1780.

Sir: The board think it proper to inform Congress that owing to the present situation of the public finances which preclude a possibility we presume of proper supplies, and with a hope that the measure tho' dictated to us by necessity may produce salutary effects, we have directed no purchases of cloathing to be made by our agents, until they receive farther orders from us. We are not justified in this by any appearances of a sufficient supply being provided for the troops who are not in a condition in this respect even comfortable, there being a great deficiency of many of the articles of cloathing, and but a bare supply of any. The articles of blankets, hose or woolen overalls, shirts and shoes are distressingly wanted. Huts also are very scarce. The States one or two excepted, have done little towards the cloathing of the troops, and we were never in a situation to make an ample provision, even when money was more abundant than it now is. At present tho' goods are repeatedly offered to us, we have it not in our power to pay for any articles of consequence. After thus having stated the matter to Congress we shall wait their directions, and assistance if it should be deemed proper for us to proceed in purchasing, a business to which we have often told Congress we deem ourselves inadequate, but which we have prosecuted with as much attention as our other business would permit tho' the task has ever been unpleasant from a conviction that it was impossible for us to execute it with advantage to the public interest. Nor will this matter in our humble opinion ever be on a proper footing, until either every State shall clothe its own quota of troops, or some person who has no other business be appointed to make the provision Continentally. But we hope the supplies expected from Europe, will supercede the necessity of any other provision. Whether our hopes are well founded Congress best know. We have never been perfectly satisfied ourselves and therefore we never could satisfy the anxious enquiries of the officers of the certainty of these supplies. And we take the liberty of mentioning to Congress our opinion, which was strengthened by the like sentiment expressed on this subject by Mons' Gerard, that however well inclined the court and the officers of France may be to accommodate the United States, their wishes will never be gratified, unless a person having a knowledge of goods, and attentive to business is appointed to be on the spot, and superintend the providing and shipping the articles. Indeed this is a measure so obviously necessary, that we presume it must have occurred to, and is perhaps ordered by Congress.

Before we quit this subject we beg leave to mention the repeated applications and uneasiness of the officers of the Line, not provided for by any State and of the staff in general. These applications have been more frequent and the uneasiness more inflamed by the publication of the late Resolution of Congress directing how the cloathing was to be distributed, which led the Officers to believe there was some provision made of articles subject to the disposition directed by that Resolution. We must therefore renew our application that some means of satisfying the demands of these officers may be directed by Congress, tho' when we consider the amount of the sums necessary for this purpose we perceive difficulties almost insuperable at this late period.¹

Ordered, That the suspension be taken off, and that the Board of Treasury proceed in the publication relative to the sale of bills of exchange.

Congress took into consideration the motion made by Mr. [Robert R.] Livingston; after debate,

Resolved that the Commander in Chief be directed to dismiss all the Troops whose times will expire by the 1st day of April next who shall be willing to receive their discharge.

Resolved that the number of Regiments be reduced to sixty and the soldiers of such regiments, incorporated with those that remain upon the establishment.

Resolved that the Board of War report a plan for such reduction.

¹ This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 146, I, folio 1.
Resolved that the reduced officers be allowed full pay exclusive of rations and subsistence money during the war, and such other allowance after the war as is made to those officers who have served during the war.

Resolved that any vacancy in the sixty battalions be filled up by officers from the reduced regiments having respect to the States to which such regiments belong.¹

A motion was made by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, seconded by Mr. [Nathaniel] Peabody, That it be referred to a committee of three, that the committee repair to headquarters, consult General Washington on the subject thereof, and report to Congress; and that the committee in conjunction with the General be authorised to take such measures as they may judge necessary, for obtaining immediate supplies of provision for the army. A division was called for and on the question to agree that it be referred to a committee, Resolved in the affirmative.

Another division was called for, and on the question on the first part, directing the committee to repair to headquarters, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry,

Board, on the 21 day of June last, in consequence of an order of Congress of the 7th of the same month, to repair to Virginia, and settle the accounts of the United States against the troops of the convention of Saratoga; and the correspondence between the said James Milligan and Major General William Phillips, senior officer of the said troops; together with sundry other papers relative to the said accounts: Whereupon,

Resolved, That for facilitating the settlement of the accounts of the United States against the troops of the Convention of Saratoga, which have arisen subsequently to those settled and paid by Lieutenant General Burgoyne, previous to his departure for England, all articles proper to be included be charged at the same rates as the like articles were charged in the accounts settled between Major General Heath and Lieutenant General Burgoyne.

That all supplies hereafter furnished to the said troops be charged in like manner.

That Major General Phillips, now in New York on parole, be required to have the amount due for provisions and other articles supplied to the said troops, in the months of March, April, May, June, July and August, 1778, and January, February, March, April, May, June and July, 1779, forthwith discharged, agreeably to the resolutions of Congress of the 19 December, 1777, and 22 May, 1778.

That if Major General Phillips shall persist in refusing to discharge the said accounts, demand thereof be made from General Sir Henry Clinton, or the officer commanding in chief the British forces at New York.

That in case of non-compliance in this resort, the guards be thereupon doubled, at the expense of the British government, and the said troops kept on half allowance for the space of one month; on one third allowance for the succeeding month; and thenceforward one fourth allowance, till further order shall be taken for the equitable adjustment of the premises.

That the mode adopted by George Rice, assistant deputy quartermaster general, at Charlottesville, for apportioning the charges of supplies furnished by the quartermaster general's department to the troops of the Convention, and the guards, appears to be the only practicable one left for adjusting the same.

That the quartermaster general be directed to take effectual care that the accounts of all supplies which may in future be furnished by his department for the said Convention troops, be kept separate from the accounts of supplies furnished for the guards.

That the Board of Treasury be authorised and directed to commission and instruct some suitable person or persons to compleat the final settlement of the said accounts, and receive the sums due thereon, or the articles delivered in kind, on the part of the enemy.

That the said Board give the necessary orders for collecting the vouchers and preparing the accounts of the supplies furnished to the said Convention troops, from the 1st. of September to the 31 December, 1778, and from 1st. August to the 31 December, 1779.¹

Another report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

Ordered, That on the application of Charles Pettit, assistant quartermaster general, a warrant issue in his favour, on Joseph Borden, commissioner of the continental loan office for the State of New Jersey, for twenty thousand dollars, on account of Major General Greene, quarter master general, and for the use of his department; for which he is to be accountable.

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon

WAR OFFICE, Jany 10th 1780.

When the Commander in Chief detached the Virginia troops, a passage in his letter indicated his concern for the weakness of his army by making that detachment, and numerous discharges soon to take place of those men whose times of enlistment were near expiring. Under this view of the matter, the board thought the service of any number of troops, even for a few months an object of importance, and therefore reported to Congress that such of the Virginians whose times of enlistment would expire between the 1st of Jany and the last of March, should return to the main army. We since find that this has given dissatisfaction to those troops—that contrary to our expectations, very few reinstated on the alternative of going home immediately, or returning to camp—that if permitted now to go home, two or three months indulgence may probably induce many afterwards to reinlist—and more than all, that the scarcity of provisions at camp renders it inexpedient that they should return thither. These reasons concur with the sentiments of the Commander in Chief, as expressed in the following extract of a letter from him to Genl Woodford, dated Decr 24, 1779: “As to the Officers and men who do not proceed to the southward on account of the short duration of the enlistments of the latter, Congress and the Board of War will direct the conduct they are to pursue, you were certainly right, in my opinion in advising against their return to the army, and for the reasons you have assigned and in addition, their not returning will contribute in some degree to lessen our difficulties on the subject of supplies of provisions, which are distressing almost in the extreme." We therefore beg leave to report

Resolved, That such of the Virginia troops as by a resolve of the 15th of December last were required to return and join the main army, be marched by their officers to the State of Virginia and there discharged, a change of circumstances rendering their junction with that army unnecessary, except such number of those whose times of enlistment will latest expire, as shall be deemed necessary to be employed as guards by the Board of War.

Of the first division of prisoners sent lately to Fort Frederick we find upwards of fifty file too sick to proceed farther than Lancaster, and perhaps many of the second may be in the same condition, our intention therefore is, if Congress think proper, to retain a company of Virginians to guard those prisoners while at Lancaster, and when recovered to escort them to Fort Frederick.¹

Another report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

WAR OFFICE Jany 11th 1780

Sir: The Board are extremely averse from troubling Congress on matters of small importance. They ever avoid it except where consequences are involved in the measure which may create future uneasiness with respect to other cases. The officers of all the regiments of light dragoons are anxious to have as many of their men mounted as possible and from the scarcity of cash and the great expence of horses we have given very little encouragement to any applications for the purchase of horses. By the enclosed letter Congress will perceive that Gen¹ Washington thinks Col² Armand's case is an exception as he purchased the horses originally at his own expence and these are looked upon as a debt due in kind from the United States to Colonel Armand, tho' he does not expect that the horses shall be his, but remain the property of the public. If Congress shall be of opinion that Col. Armand's request to have twelve horses to replace those lost last campaign ought to be complied with they will be pleased to resolve,

Resolved, That the Board of War be directed to order twelve dragoon horses to be delivered to Colonel Armand for the use of his corps, the said horses to be taken from those already purchased for public use, and not otherwise necessarily employed;

Or if so many cannot be found, that the deficiency be supplied by purchases for that purpose.

N. B. The Board have ordered (conditionally) seven horses out of those used by their escorts. So that there will remain five to be purchased if Congress direct it.¹

Ordered, That the remainder of the report be postponed.

The committee on the return of issues at Philadelphia delivered in a report, which was read; and after debate,

Ordered, That it be re-committed, and that the committee confer with the Board of War, and report to Morrow.

Resolved, That all the powers granted to General Washinton, by the resolution of 5th March, 1779, respecting the exchange of prisoners, be, and they are hereby renewed and confirmed.

Ordered, That the papers accompanying the General's letter of 4 be returned to him.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the executive authorities of the several states, to transmit with all possible expedition to General Washington, the names and rank of all officers; and the number of privates belonging to the enemy, held as prisoners of war within their respective states, and the places they are at, in order that they may be included in the general exchange, should a cartel be agreed to, between the commanders in chief of the American and British armies.

Congress took into consideration the report of the Board of War, of 21 August last, relative to prisoners, and thereupon came to the following resolutions:

Many inconveniences attending the present management of prisoners of war, and great dissatisfaction having arisen from the mode of exchanging them heretofore used, from the partialities inevitably attending the same, while conducted under various directions by divers commissaries independent of each other; and sufficient provision not being made for their security, in many cases frequently occurring:

Resolved, That all prisoners of war, whether captivated by the army or navy of the United States, or by the subjects, troops, or ships of any particular State, shall be delivered into the care and custody of the commissary general of prisoners, his deputies or assistants, and be deemed and treated, in all respects, as prisoners of war to the United States:

That it be earnestly recommended to the governments of the respective states, that they make no exchanges of prisoners; to the intent, that all exchanges may be made through the commissary general of prisoners, by direction of Congress
January, 1780

or the Commander in Chief, or Board of Admiralty; and when prisoners are taken by the particular subjects, troops or vessels of any State, not in the service of the United States, or by private ships or vessels of war, fitted out in any particular State, these shall be first exchanged, so far as is necessary, for the subjects or inhabitants of the same State, taken by the subjects, adherents, ships or vessels of the enemy; and the overplus, if any, shall go towards redeeming the prisoners in the hands of the enemy; without regard to their being subjects or inhabitants of any particular State:

That all masters or commanders of private ships or vessels of war, shall take the utmost care to bring into port all prisoners captivated by them. And if from necessity they shall be obliged to dismiss any prisoners at sea, they shall, on return from their cruise, make report thereof, on oath, to the judge of the admiralty of the State to which they belong, or in which they arrive, within 20 days after their arrival, with their reasons for such dismissal. And if the judge shall not be satisfied with the reasons assigned, or if it shall appear that the prisoners were discharged to avoid the trouble or expence of bringing them into port, and delivering them into custody, or in any wise unnecessarily, then the judge shall transmit an account thereof to the executive of the State, who are requested to examine into the matter, and vacate the commission granted to the said delinquent master or commander of the ship or vessel, if they are of opinion that such dismissal was improper:

That all prisoners of war captivated by private ships or vessels of war, be delivered by and at the expence of the masters or owners of such ships or vessels, to a commissary of prisoners nearest the place of their landing, or into the nearest county gaol, on pain of forfeiture of the commission granted to such private ship or vessel:
That on such delivery of the prisoners into the gaol, the gaoler shall be obliged to inform the government of the State wherein the said prisoners are landed; or, in case of their residence at too great a distance, the lieutenant or commanding officer of the militia of the county wherein such prisoners are landed, the commissary general of prisoners or his deputy; that if the said prisoners are not deemed to be, by the executive of the State, or the said commanding officer of the militia, in a place of sufficient security, they may be removed under proper guards to a place or places of greater safety at the expence of the United States. And the executive powers of the respective states are requested to give the necessary orders to the commanding officers of the militia on this subject, and to pay the expenses of escorting and transporting the prisoners; charging the same to the United States. The said executives are also requested to give orders to the officers of their militia, to take immediate charge of all prisoners of war captivated by the ships and vessels of war, belonging to the United States or to any particular State, and to convey them, at the expense of the United States, to the nearest commissary of prisoners, or county gaol; and also direct the like steps to be taken in regard to the removal to places of greater safety, as is provided in the case of prisoners captured by private vessels:

That it be recommended to the legislatures of the respective states, effectually to provide, at the expense of the United States, for the delivery and safe keeping of all prisoners captivated by their respective subjects, out of vessels stranded or cast on shore on their coasts, obliging the parties taking prisoners, to deliver them to the nearest commissary of prisoners or into the nearest gaol, in case no commissary of prisoners is stationed within convenient distance of the place of capture; and in case of neglect or misconduct in the persons so taking the prisoners, that they forfeit all right to the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture so cast on shore, or the property they may save, or be otherwise entitled to out of such vessel; or imposing such other penalty as the said legislatures shall respectively think proper:

That it be recommended to the said legislatures to provide and direct, that all gaolers receive and deliver prisoners of war, without charging any fee or reward to the persons delivering them into or taking them by proper authority out of their custody. The reasonable expenses of supporting such prisoners in gaol, to be paid by the government of the State wherein they shall be confined, and charged to the United States; except where they can and shall be otherwise provided for by the proper officer in the service of the United States. And the gaoler shall transmit a copy of his charges against the United States, for account of prisoners of war, to the commissary general of prisoners, or his nearest deputy, when any prisoners leave the gaol, either for removal to places of greater security, or for exchange:

That prisoners of war, either on their march, or in confinement, be furnished with only two-thirds of a soldier’s ration:

That none but sick or wounded prisoners be allowed carriages at public expence:

That all prisoners on parole pay their own expenses; and such expenses shall be paid before they shall be exchanged:

That all officers, prisoners of war to the United States, unless in hospitals, pay their physicians, surgeons and attendants:

That the commissary general of prisoners and his deputies, make regular monthly returns, to the Board of War, of the numbers, situation and exchanges of all prisoners under their charge; and that they also give the said Board such occasional information, of all material transactions in their department, as circumstances from time to time render necessary, or when they shall be required by the Board so to do, under pain of being suspended or dismissed by the said Board:

That all exchanges of prisoners made in consequence of the foregoing resolutions, shall be soldier for soldier and sailor for sailor.

The report recommending that after the first resolution it be resolved, "That the states whose inhabitants are exchanged for the prisoners captured by their vessels, or those of their subjects, be charged with the expence of securing and supporting the prisoners of the enemy so exchanged."

A memorial from John Halstead was read:

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury.

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon, Congress came to the following resolutions:

AT A BOARD OF WAR Jany 12. 1780

The Board taking into consideration the letter from Gen⁰ Washington on the subject of Gen⁰ Du portail and other Engineers referred to them by Congress beg leave to report,

Whereas Congress on the first day of January in the year 1779 resolved, “That Brigadier Duportail and Messrs la Radiere, Laumoy and Gouvion be retained in the service of the United States as Engineers for another campaign if agreeable to their inclination and permission can be obtained from His Most Christian Majesty or his Minister Plenipotentiary.”

And the said Engineers in consequence of the above resolution having agreed to continue, under permission obtained from the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, in the service of the United States and having except Col. La Radiere who died much regretted served the last campaign, so honorably to themselves and usefully to these States as to obtain ample testimonials of their abilities and exertions from the Commander in Chief who is of opinion that Gen⁰ Du Portail, and Col⁰ Laumoy and Gouvion should be retained in the service during the war or so long as is consistent with their duty to their King and agreeable to their inclinations,

Resolved, That Congress have a very favourable opinion of the conduct and capacity of General Du Portail and Messrs. Laumoy and Gouvion and lament the untimely death of Col. La Raudiere who during his services in America had by his zeal and exertions highly recommended himself as an officer and a gentleman.

Whereas Brigadier General du Portail and Colonel Laumoy, and Lieutenant Colonel de Gouvion, have continued in the service of the United States pursuant to a resolution of Congress of the 1st day of January, 1779, and under a permission from the Minister Plenipotentiary of his most Christian Majesty, and have obtained from the Commander in Chief ample testimonials of honorable and useful services rendered during the last campaign:

Resolved, That Brigadier General du Portail and Messieurs Laumoy and Gouvion be retained in the service of the United States (if permission can be obtained for that purpose from his most Christian Majesty or his Minister Plenipotentiary) so long, during the present war, as shall be consistent with their inclinations and duty as officers to their King:

That the Board of War be directed to confer with the Minister of France on the subject, and inform General du Portail and Messieurs Laumoy and Gouvion of the result of such conference.¹

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Benjamin Stoddert, Esquire, secretary to the Board of War, for six thousand dollars on account of his salary.

Ordered, That the remainder of the report be re-committed.

On motion of the Committee for Foreign Affairs, Congress came to the following resolution: 1

Whereas by the eleventh article of the treaty of amity and commerce between his most Christian Majesty and the United States of America, it is provided, "That the subjects and inhabitants of the said United States, or any one of them, shall not be reputed aubains in France, and consequently shall be exempted from the Droit d'Aubaine, or other similar duty, under what name soever: they may, by testament, donation or otherwise, dispose of their goods, movable and immovable, in favor of such persons as to them shall seem good; and their heirs, subjects of the said United States, residing, whether in France or elsewhere, may succeed them, ab intestat, without being obliged to obtain letters of naturalization, and without having the effect of this concession contested or impeded under pretext of any rights or prerogatives of provinces, cities or private persons: and the said heirs, whether such by particular title, or ab intestat, shall be exempt from all duty, called Droit de Detraction, or other duty of the same kind; saving, nevertheless, the local rights or duties, as much and as long as similar ones are not established by the United States or any of them: The subjects of the most Christian King shall enjoy, on their part, in all the dominions of the said States, an entire and perfect reciprocity relative to the stipulations contained in the present article; But it is, at the same time, agreed that its contents shall not affect the laws made or that may be made hereafter in France, against emigrations, which shall remain in all their force and vigor; and the United States, on their part, or any of them, shall be at liberty to enact such laws relative to that matter as to them shall seem proper.”

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several United States to make provision, where not already made, for conferring like privileges and immunities on the subjects of his most Christian Majesty, agreeable to the form and spirit of the above recited article.

The Committee to whom was referred the representation from the Legislative Council and general assembly of the State of New Jersey, have had the same and the subject matter therein mentioned under their consideration, and beg leave to report.

That the sudden depreciation of Continental currency between the months of March and May last, the great increase of price of all articles since the resolve of Congress of the first of September last for limiting the emissions of paper money, and the circular letter soon after, whereby Congress not only renewed the obligation of redemption at the nominal value; but evinced the sufficiency of the funds for that purpose, leave your Committee no room to doubt but that the real causes of this great and alarming depreciation are wholly owing to the acts of some disaffected to our government, and others whose extortion and avarice scandalize all governments, and not to scarcity of Commodity or over quantity of a circulating medium, nor want of faith in Government, the causes heretofore assigned with so much plausibility. In proof of this your Committee beg leave to observe, that the quantity of money, that can possibly be in circulation, under the aforementioned resolve of Congress, is not more than 200 m. of Dollars, which is not more than seven times the quantity actually necessary for a common medium, and tho' this quantity will admit of a progressive depreciation, yet no calculation can carry it to fifteen prices. Yet it is notorious that the article of flour in this market is not only now at 50 prices but that it has raised 150 p. ct. since the limitation of future emissions and other articles have advanced nearly in the same proportion.

Your Committee further report that the sudden and continuing depreciation must necessarily discourage all foreigners from commercial connexion with the American States, that the present importations depending so much on the small number of vessels and seamen is in fact a monopoly and must continue so till vessels can be built or until foreigners shall assist in the importations, which they cannot do with any safety while the Country produce, by which alone they must make their remittances are raising many prices by the week. That the great demand of country commodities for the support of the army and other public uses, enables the farmer and others to exact what prices they please; that as such public expense must in the end be defrayed principally by the Landholder and yeomanry of America, the rise of Country Commodities does but encrease their debt and render the operations of taxation ineffectual in the appreciation of the currency.

Your Committee also report that the late Requisitions of 15 millions of D. by the month from the respective States being founded on estimates according to the monthly expenses prior to the first of September last, that as all the supplies for the army are thus encreased since that period, it becomes absolutely necessary to limit the prices of such articles according to their rates when the estimates were made, or to make further emissions of bills of credit, your Committee being well satisfied, that the whole quantity now in circulation, would not be sufficient to supply the public wants at the present advanced prices of all articles—and as Congress are determined on no occasion to make further emissions your Committee are of opinion, that a general and universal limitation of price of all articles as well foreign as country produce is the only and effectual means of maintaining the army. That the same ought to be adopted as soon as may be in order to stop the great increase of public debt, and to aid the taxes in the reduction of prices—and that the limitation should be liberal at the beginning in order to allow scarce articles their advantage over those that are plenty.

Resolved, therefore, that it be recommended to the Legislatures of the respective States to pass laws for limiting the prices of labour and all commodity foreign and domestic (salt and military stores excepted) so as not to exceed twenty prices of what the same article sold for in the year allowing such additional price for imported articles, for insurance, freight and other charges as the nature of the trade of each State shall justify and allowing also as an encouragement for country manufactures the same price as a foreign commodity of like quality shall sell for, deducting the price of insurance.

Resolved that for the more certain limitation of the price of foreign articles and for the encouragement of importations it may be expedient for the several States to open offices for insuring the importations of their respective inhabitants.

N. B. Salt excepted, to be remedied by compelling importation as to tonnage of American vessels.¹

According to order Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee for establishing a court of appeals; Whereupon,

Resolved, That a court be established for the trial of all appeals from the courts of admiralty in these United States, in cases of capture, to consist of three judges, appointed and commissioned by Congress, either two of whom, in the absence of the other, to hold the said court for the despatch of business:

That the said court appoint their own register:

That the trials therein be according to the usage of nations and not by jury:

That the said judges hold their first session as soon as may be at Philadelphia; and afterwards at such times and places as they shall judge most conducive to the public good, so that they do not at any time sit further eastward than Hartford, in Connecticut, or southward, than Williamsburg, in Virginia:

That the salary of the said judges be fixed on the first Monday of July next; and that in the interim the sum of twelve thousand dollars be advanced to each of them.

That the Judges of said Court be allowed for their services and expenses 25,000 dollars per annum until the further order of Congress.

That for defraying the expence of said court of Appeals one half per centum on the value of all prizes the trial whereof shall come before them shall be paid into the Continental treasury which—if more than sufficient for the purpose aforesaid the residue shall be applied to the support of seamen disabled in the service of these United States.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the States to make laws authorizing and directing the Courts of Admiralty therein established pursuant to the recommendation of Congress, to carry into full and speedy execution the final decrees of the Court of Appeals on the same being made known to the Courts, or Judges of Admiralty from whence the appeals are or shall be taken.
And whereas trials by Jury in cases of capture, which are decided by the law of nations, and not the municipal laws of the land, are found on trial to be inconvenient, and are not practised in any other nation.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the States to authorize the Courts of Admiralty therein, who are not so authorized already, to decide without a Jury in all cases, where the civil law, the law of nations, and the resolutions of Congress, are the rules of their proceeding and adjudication.¹

In debating the paragraph, "That the trials therein be according to the usage of nations and not by jury."

A motion was made by Mr. [Nathaniel] Peabody, seconded by Mr. [Nathaniel] Folsom, to strike out the words "according to the usage of nations and not;" and on the question, shall those words stand, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Nathaniel] Folsom,

The Board of War, to whom was referred the letter of 17 December last, from General Washington, relative to Monsieur Hyacinthe la Motte, brought in a report; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR Dec 31st 1779

Present Col Pickering, Mr Peters, Col Grayson

The Board having taken into consideration the letter of Genl Washington, enclosing a memorial of Monseur Hyacinthe La Motte,

Beg leave to report to Congress,

That Congress have a due sense of the zeal discovered by Monseur La Motte for the service of the United States, but particular considerations prevent his being employed in the capacity he mentions in his memorial to Congress.

Resolved, That the expediency of continuing Monsieur La Motte in his present employment be referred to the honorable council of Massachusetts Bay who are requested to adjust and settle the account of said Monsieur La Motte at Continental expense and if they deem his continuance unnecessary to discharge him from any farther service and that the council be informed that the Board of War have advanced Monsieur La Motte three thousand dollars on account of his pay.

The Board are not sufficiently convinced of the character of the Memorialist nor of the necessity of the mission to recommend his being sent into Canada at a heavy expense. The business of the Department under the agency of Coll Allen being by resolution of Congress put under the direction of the Council of Massachusetts, it was deemed most proper to refer the determination in the case of Monseur La Motte to them. From what appears to the Board we should determine on a dismissal of the Memorialist.¹

On motion of Mr. [Roger] Sherman, seconded by Mr. [James] McLene,

Resolved, That the commissary general of purchases be allowed two clerks, to be by him appointed.

¹This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, IV, folio 75.
January, 1780

That each of the said clerks be allowed the same salary as a clerk of the Board of Treasury.

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee on the memorial of the honorable Minister Plenipotentiary of France; and thereupon came to the following resolutions:

Whereas the Minister Plenipotentiary of France hath represented to us that a quantity of wheat and flour hath been procured and collected in the State of Maryland, at a great expense, for the fleet of his most Christian Majesty, and for his garrisons in the French islands; that they are in pressing want of those supplies; that by an act of the legislature of the said State, commissioners therein named are authorized to seize wheat and flour in stores; and that the seizure of the wheat and flour collected as aforesaid, and in the hands of William Smith, Esq. of Baltimore, in the said State, would embarrass the measures of the agent of the marine of the King of France, endanger the success of military plans, and expose to want the garrisons aforesaid; and hath requested our interposition in this regard: And whereas Congress are at all times disposed to attend to the Representations, and as far as is in their power to comply with the requests of the Minister of their Illustrious Ally. Therefore,

Resolved, That it be, and hereby it is recommended to the governor and council of the State of Maryland, to direct the commissioners appointed to carry the act for the immediate supply of flour and other provisions for the army into full force and execution, to refrain from seizing the provisions which have been purchased by permission of the State of Maryland for the agent of the marine of his most Christian Majesty; to replace them in case they have been already seized; and to permit the exportation thereof.
That a copy of the memorial of the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, and a copy of the papers enclosed, be immediately transmitted, with the foregoing resolution, to the governor and council of the State of Maryland.

Resolved, That Congress entertain a high sense of the exertions of the legislature and governor and council of the State of Maryland to procure an immediate supply of flour and other provisions for the army, and that the governor and council be requested to cause the same to be forwarded as fast as procured to the army, the pressing wants of which demand immediate relief.¹

According to order, Congress was resolved into a Committee of the Whole, and after some time, the President resumed the chair, and Mr. [George] Plater reported, that the committee had had under consideration the report of the committee for estimating the quotas of supplies, and are of opinion that the same be referred to a committee consisting of a member from each State.

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.

The members chosen, Mr. [John] Mathews, Mr. [Cyrus] Griffin, Mr. [Thomas] McKean, Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, Mr. [William] Ellery, Mr. [Thomas] Burke, Mr. [James] Searle, Mr. [James] Forbes, Mr. [Nathaniel] Folsom, Mr. [Roger] Sherman, Mr. [Ezra] L'Hommedieu, and Mr. [John] Fell.

A memorial from the honorable the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, was read, intimating that he has farther communications to make.

On the 25th of January, 1780, the minister plenipotentiary of France transmitted to Congress the following memorial:

PHILADELPHIA, January 25, 1780.

The Minister Plenipotentiary of France has received express orders from the king his master to inform Congress, that the present situation of the affairs of the alliance in Europe announces the necessity of another campaign, which is indispensable to bring England to an acknowledgment of the independence of the thirteen United States, which is the essential purpose of the present war. That power is making preparations the most proper for continuing the war with vigour, and appears willing to employ, in the course of this year, all the means possible to procure reparation, by some important enterprise, for the losses it has already sustained. Congress cannot doubt but that, in this situation of affairs, his most Christian Majesty and the king ¹This report, in the writing of Ezra L'Hommedieu, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 19, IV, folio 89. It is endorsed by Thomson: "Delivered January 25, 1780." A second preamble and resolution appears on the back of the report, also in L'Hommedieu's writing, as follows:

Whereas Congress have agreed with Mr. Stephen Moore to purchase his farm at West Point, containing 1080 Acres for the use of the United States; for a sum of Money equivalent to what shall be deemed to have been the value of the said farm in the year 1774, and also the value of the rent thereof for two years: by such persons as shall hereafter be appointed by Congress for that purpose. Ordered that 40,000 dollars be advanced to the said Stephen Moore in part of the purchase Money to be paid him for the said farm, and that the two following warrants issue in his favor for the said sum, to Wit, One on the Treasurer for ten thousand dollars, and another on His Excellency Richard Caswell Esq; Governor of the State of North Carolina for thirty thousand dollars to be paid out of the Monies raised by the said State for the use of the United States.
of Spain have concerted plans to maintain that superiority by sea, which has begun to appear in their favour; and the underwritten has reason to believe, that the United States have nothing to desire of their ally, touching the use he is making of the resources of his realm, and the efficacy of the measures adopted by the cabinets of Versailles and Madrid. But while this powerful diversion retains in Europe and the West Indies the greater part of the land and sea forces of the common enemy, it is absolutely necessary that the United States, on their part, should make efforts proportionable to the greatness of the object for which they are contending. The only means of putting an end to the calamities of the war is to push it with new vigour; to take effectual measures immediately for completing the army, and putting it in condition to begin an early campaign. It is also necessary to concert, as far as the distance of places will permit, a plan of common operations; and this is one of the principal points on which the underwritten minister is ordered to consult with Congress. He is also ordered to assure this assembly that the king, being informed of the wants of the American army, with respect to arms and ammunition, has commanded his ministers to make suitable arrangements for supplying them. It is necessary that the underwritten minister should confer with Congress on the subjects just mentioned. Besides, he has some particular circumstances to communicate relative to the present or probable state of the negotiations; and he desires that this assembly will be pleased to inform him in what manner they will receive the communication, the subject of which, as well as the plan of operations for the ensuing campaign, requires the most profound secrecy. In the mean while, he now only as-

That the Resolutions of Congress of the 11th day of Jan? respecting the penalty for non payment of the money due from the Convention Troops be repealed; and that the Board of Treasury suspend the requisition for payment of said money until the proposed negotiation for exchange of Prisoners is finished.¹

"That General Washington be informed that Congress had no intention of connecting the settlement or payment of the accounts against the Convention troops with the proposed exchange of prisoners, and that he be authorized to proceed to negotiate said exchange with all convenient dispatch on such terms, in all respects, as he may judge most expedient—"

An amendment was moved by Mr. [Robert R.] Livingston, seconded by Mr. [Nathaniel] Folsom, by adding "Yet from a change of circumstances, they think it improper to conclude an exchange, till it is agreed as a preliminary article that the accounts be settled and paid."

A motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] McKean, seconded by Mr. [John] Penn, to postpone the consideration of the paragraph and amendment, in order to consider the following proposition:

"That the General be informed it is the wish of Congress that the exchange of prisoners, upon principles of equality, should proceed at all events; but that they also hope it may be practicable, in the course of the business, to obtain an assurance, that the accounts for the subsistence of the Convention troops shall be liquidated and paid, by retaining a number of them, not less than five hundred, to secure this

In the General Assembly of the Delaware State, at Wilmington, Friday, P. M. December 24, 1779.

The General Assembly proceeded, by joint Ballot, to the Election of a Delegate from this State to the Congress of the United States of America, to supply the Place of George Read, Esquire, who was appointed to that Service, and hath declined to accept of the said Appointment, and the Box containing the Ballots being examined, The Honorable Thomas McKean, Esquire, is declared unanimously elected.

Extract from the Minutes,

Ja* Booth, Clk of Assembly.¹

A letter, of 26, from the Board of War, was read:

War Office, Jan' 26th 1780.

SIR, There have been some applications made to us for forage for the horses of the clerks of Gen' Mifflin late Q' M' General, who are waiting in Philadel' for the purpose of settling their accounts.

We have also discovered in the returns of the Issuing Commissary and of the keeper of the public stables that M' Thomas Jones late Dep' Comm' Gen'l of issues, and who has been out of office near a twelve month, has been drawing provisions and forage ever since, for the same reason we do not doubt but there are many others who continue to draw the public supplies, who are under similar circumstances.

In the instance of General Mifflin's clerks, it is alleged they have been ready for a settlement, and we suppose the reason why this matter has not been closed, is altogether owing to the small number of auditors, and the variety of business, which has necessarily devolved on them.

We would therefore recommend that either commissioners should be appointed in the country at proper places for the settlement of all accounts of any kind or nature, or in case this should be thought inexpedient, that two new Chambers of account should be erected, subordinate to the Treasury Board, in the same manner as the present auditors, to devote their attention particularly to the settlement of the accounts of the Commissary’s and Q’t M’ Gen’ Department respectively, and when these accounts do not admit of constant employment, that they take up any other business of the Continent, which relates to their line of duty indiscriminately.

The Board apprehend that the Continent would save greatly by retrenchments in the rations pay and forage of persons under the description above mentioned; and that the speedy settlement of public accounts, would produce other good effects, perhaps not less important.

Should Congress not be disposed at present to take up the matter we would wish to be informed of the precise period, when after their being out of office, the rations pay and forage of officers of this denomination, shall cease; at present we have no rule of conduct to govern us.

Resolved, That the Board of War be informed in answer to their letter of the 26th Instant, that the pay and rations of all officers cease at the time of their discharge from office, and if any officer has drawn pay and rations heretofore after his discharge, he ought to be charged in debt to the United States for the same.¹

On which, a motion being made,

Ordered, That the letter and motion be referred to the Board of Treasury.

A letter, of this day, from Major Eustace, was read, requesting leave to resign;

Resolved, That his resignation be accepted.

A letter, of 23, from Royal Flint was read:²

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury.

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

Ordered, That on the application of the Board of War and Ordnance, a warrant issue on his excellency, the president and supreme executive council of the State of Pensylvania, for one hundred thousand dollars, in part of the monies raised by the said State, for the use of the United States, in favour of William Henry, Esquire, of Lancaster, in the said State, for the purchase of cloathing, for the use of the army; the said William Henry to be accountable.\(^1\)

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee, appointed on the 12 November last, to report a proper allowance for the officers of sundry departments, from the last adjustment of their accounts; Whereupon,

The Committee appointed the 12\(^{th}\) Nov. last to report a proper allowance for the officers of sundry Departments from the last adjustments of their accounts, respectively, having attended that business, find that the said accounts have been adjusted at different periods and that a strict adherence to the Resolution appointing the Committee would operate partially even to the officers of the same Department; the Committee therefore having a retrospect to the 2\(^{nd}\) November 1778 soon after which time sums were advanced by Congress to several of the said officers, with an intention as it is supposed to raise their salaries, beg leave to Report;

Resolved, That the treasurer, the commissioners of the Board of War, the commissioners of the chambers of accounts, the commissioners of the navy boards, the secretaries of the Board of Treasury and of the Board of War, the assistant auditor general, and the clerks of the Board of Treasury, Board of War, chambers of accounts, treasurer, auditor general, and of the secretary of Congress, be entitled to receive, in lieu of every other allowance, from the 2d day of

That the pay of John Gibson, Esq. for his services whilst auditor general, be as follows; from the 9 December, 1776, the time of the last adjustment of his account, to the 16 October, 1778, at the rate of 1715 dollars per annum; from the date last mentioned, to the 2 November, 1778, at the rate of 3430 dollars per annum; and from thence to the 25 November, 1779, at the rate of 12,000 dollars per annum:

That the pay of the secretary of Congress be as follows: from the 10th February, 1778, the date of the last settlement of his account, to the 16 of October following, at the rate of 2000 dollars per annum; from the time last mentioned to the 2d November, 1778, 4000 dollars per annum; and from and after that day until the further order of Congress, at the rate of 14,000 dollars per annum:

That the salary of the secretary of the Marine Committee be, from the 2d November, 1778, at the rate of 8000 dollars per annum, until he was appointed secretary to the Board of Admiralty:

That the pay of the clerks of the Commercial Committee, the clerk of the navy board of the middle district, and the secretary of ordnance and paymaster to the Board of War and Ordnance, from the 2 November, 1778, or from the dates of their appointments, if elected after that time, be at the rate of 8000 dollars per annum respectively, until the further order of Congress:

That William Story, having performed the service of clerk and pay master to the navy board of the eastern district, be appointed to that office and entitled to receive, from the 2 November, 1778, in lieu of every other allowance, at the rate of 8000 dollars per annum, until the further order of Congress.
That the accounts of said officers be forthwith adjusted and that no advances be hereafter made on their salaries respectively:

[That the salary of the treasurer of loans, from the second November, 1778, be the same as that of a commissioner of the chambers of accounts, until the further order of Congress; in full of all services in the said office:

That the accounts of the said officers be forthwith adjusted and closed, and that no advance be hereafter made to any of them on account of their salaries but by order of Congress.

Your committee further beg leave to report that the cases of the principal officers named above previous to the second day of November, 1778, be recommended to the consideration of some future Congress.]

Congress proceeded to consider the report of the committee, to whom was referred on the 17 December last, the last return of provisions and stores issued at Philadelphia, from the 1 to 26 November, inclusive; and thereupon,

Resolved, That all issues of articles in the department of the commissary general of issues, made in pursuance of a resolution of Congress of the 2 October, 1777, be discontinued:

That the Medical Committee, as soon as they shall judge convenient, give directions for removing the hospitals in or near Philadelphia, to some other place, where wood and other necessaries may be procured on more reasonable terms than in the city aforesaid:

That the issuing commissaries be respectively directed not to deliver rations, or parts of rations, to any hospital commissary, unless on returns signed by him and countersigned by the principal physician or surgeon of the respective hospitals, specifying the names and stations of the persons

That the commissary general of issues direct the form of the returns and receipts aforesaid.¹

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to prepare a draught of a commission for the judges of the Court of Appeals:

attended with great and unnecessary expense and delay, and the drawing of the prizes only is equally secure and advantageous to the adventurers; therefore,

Resolved, That the Board of Treasury be authorized to direct the managers of the United States lottery to draw the prizes only, in the third class of the said lottery; and that in case any of the tickets should remain unsold at the commencement of the drawing, to continue the sale in the place where the lottery is drawn, under the direction of the said Board.¹

Ordered, That the report of the Board of Treasury relative to the allowance of managers of the lottery be re-committed.

The committee appointed to receive the communications of the minister of France, reported the following extracts and summary:

No. 1

Extract of a despatch from lord Weymouth to lord Grantham, dated March 16, 1779.

My language to the marquis of Almodavar, flowing from my ardent desire of peace, has gone too far, and failed in precision, if it imported a disposition to exchange the royal honour and manifest rights, for a decent exterior and plausible temperature. Let France propose her complaints, pretensions, or points of any kind whatever, and an adequate answer will be given: Or let there be a truce for a certain time between Great Britain and France, during which period the pretensions of one and the other may be adjusted through the good offices of his Catholick Majesty. Let the colonies propose their complaints, and the conditions for their security and caution by which may be re-established the continuance and authority of a lawful government; we shall then see if we can come to a direct and immediate agreement. Or, if they also prefer the method abovementioned, let there be likewise a truce made with North America, that is, a real truce, and effective suspension of hostilities, during which the liberty and effects of all sorts and classes of persons may be re-established and secured, and all violence suspended on one side and the other, against the respective individuals and the estates or effects they possess. In these truces the French may treat of their own peculiar matters without giving the umbrage which would be inevitable if they mixed in the negotiation their own particular advantages with the supposed interests of those whom France affects to call her allies: And his Britannick Majesty may establish the government of his own dominions, without the disagreeable circumstance of receiving the conditions relative thereto from the hands of a declared enemy.

No. 2.

The ultimatum of the propositions made by the Catholic King to the two courts of Paris and London.

If these openings or propositions had come immediately after the king had made his for the forming of a plan of reconciliation, many difficulties might have been removed, or adjusted, by the modifications which it might have been practicable to have negotiated, if reciprocal good faith had existed, and a confidence to conclude a peace. But having lost more than two months' time, without mentioning what had been uselessly spent before, and that during this interval there was no cessation in great preparations for war, suspicions inevitably arise, that the object of England is to consume the remaining months of the campaign, and to continue the war with vigour. If this be the case, every attempt of the king will be useless towards establishing concord between the belligerent powers. Nevertheless his Majesty, willing to give the last proof of his love of humanity, and to demonstrate that he has left nothing undone to impede and put a stop to the calamities of war, has commanded that the following plan be proposed to the two courts, which on his part is the ultimatum of his negotiation: That there shall be a suspension of arms with France without limitation, and under this condition—that neither of the belligerent powers shall break it without giving the other one year's previous notice. That with a view that this suspension of hostilities may re-establish reciprocal security and good faith between the two crowns, there shall be a general disarming, within one month, in all the European; within four, in those of America; and within eight, or one year, in the most remote parts of Africa and Asia. That in the space of one month a place shall be fixed upon, in which the plenipotentiaries of the two courts shall meet to treat of a definitive adjustment of peace, regulate the respective restitutions or compensations necessary in consequence of the reprisals that have been made without any declaration of war, and to settle such matters of complaint or pretensions, as the one crown may have against the other; to the accomplishment of which end, the king will continue his mediation; and does now, for the holding of this congress, make an offer of the city of Madrid. That a like suspension of hostilities shall be separately granted by the king of Great Britain to the American colonies, through the intercession and mediation of his Catholic Majesty, to whom the king of Great Britain shall promise the observance thereof, and with the condition not to break it, without giving his majesty one year's previous notice, in order that he may communicate the same to the said American provinces: And that there be a reciprocal disarming, the same as with France, in the same times and places, regulating the limits that shall not be passed by the one or the other party, with respect to the places they may respectively occupy at the time of ratifying this arrangement. That for settling these particulars and others relative to the stability of the said suspension, and the effects it may produce while it subsists, there shall be sent to Madrid one or more commissaries on behalf of the colonies; and his Britannick Majesty shall also send his, under the mediation of the king, if necessary; and that in the mean time, the colonies shall be treated as independent in fact. Finally, in case all the belligerent powers, or any one of them, or if only the said colonies demand that the treaties, or agreements, which shall be concluded, be guarantied by these powers and by Spain, the same shall be done. And the Catho-lick King now makes an offer of his guarantee to these preliminaries.

No. 3

Extract of an answer of the court of London to the propositions contained in the ultimatum of Spain, dated May 4, 1779.

The propositions of the Catholic King tend directly to the end which Spain had proposed, to form, from the pretensions of the colonies to independence, one common cause with them and with France. If the conditions which the Court of Versailles had communicated to his Catholick Majesty do not present a better aspect than this for the treaty, or do not offer less imperious and less unequal terms, the king of Great Britain has only to lament that he finds the hopes frustrated, which he had always conceived, of a happy restoration of peace, as well for his own subjects, as the world in general.

The committee appointed to receive the communications of the honble the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, having conferred with the Minister, laid before Congress a summary of the said communications.

A summary of the communications made by the minister to the committee, and by them reported to Congress, January 28, 1780.

The minister of France informed the committee, that he had it in command from his king to impress upon the minds of Congress, That the British cabinet have an almost insuperable reluctance to admit the idea of the independence of these United States, and will use every possible endeavour to prevent it. That they have filled several of the courts of Europe with negotiations, in order to excite them to a war against France, or to obtain succours; and are employing the most strenuous endeavours to persuade the several powers that the United States are disposed to enter into treaties of accommodation. That many persons in Europe are actually employed in bringing such treaties to perfection; and that they have no doubt of their success. That the objects which the British cabinet hope for from those measures are, to destroy the superiority which France has now at sea, by diverting her powers and resources from naval to land operations, and by engaging her in a land war, where she must risk very important interests, while England would risk nothing but money; or to break, or weaken the alliance, by destroying the confidence which the allies ought to have in each other. That his most Christian Majesty gives no credit to the suggestions of Britain relative to the disposition of the United States; and it is necessary that measures be taken for the preventing of other powers from being deceived into a belief of them. That the negotiations of Britain, as far as could yet be learned, had not succeeded. That the dispositions of all the European powers are, as far as can be known, very friendly to France; but some of them may be engaged in secret treaties with Britain, which may oblige them, in some event, to assist her with troops even against their inclinations. That such event may arise, and if it should, it is probable it will produce an armed mediation, the consequences of which would be, that the allies must accept of the terms proposed by the mediator, or continue the war under the disadvantage of having the forces of the mediator united with those of their enemies. That, in such event, it is possible the terms proposed will be such as Spain offered, and Britain rejected, in the last proposed mediation. That, though the powers who may be under such engagements by treaty to Great Britain, from their friendly disposition towards his most Christian Majesty, may be very unwilling to give assistance to his enemies, yet they may find it indispensably necessary in compliance with their engagements; but it is not improbable that their reluctance, or the distance of their dominions, may delay such assistance, if granted at all, so as to be too late for the next campaign. That should the enemy be in possession of any part of the United States, at the close of the next campaign, it will be extremely difficult to bring Great Britain to acknowledge their independence; and if a mediator should be offered, while the enemy is in possession of any part, an impartial mediator could not easily refute the arguments which might be used for its retaining such possessions. And probably a mediator well disposed towards Great Britain might insist on her holding them; and if not agreed to, the hostility of such a mediator would be the necessary consequence. That should Great Britain form such alliances, or procure such aid as are the objects of her present negotiations, there will be every reason to fear a long and an obstinate war, whereof the final event may be doubtful. That this view of affairs plainly points out the necessity for the greatest possible vigour in the operations of the next campaign, in order to dispossess the enemy of every part of the United States, and to put them in condition to treat of peace, and accept of a mediation, with the greatest advantage; and the preparations for it ought to be as speedy and as effectual as possible. That France and Spain are prepared to make a very powerful diversion, and will exert themselves most strenuously for preserving and improving their naval superiority, and for employing the powers of the enemy in Europe and the West Indies. The minister declared, as from himself, that he doubted not his most Christian Majesty will spare some ships to the United States, if it can be done without endangering his superiority at sea; and that an application made to the minister informally is more eligible than to the king, because it would give his

Majesty great pain to refuse the request, though he might be in no condition to grant it. That at all events supplies should be prepared on a supposition that the ships will be granted; and such supplies should be put into the hands of the agent for the marine of France, and considered as the king's property.

He desires to be informed, as far as Congress may deem proper, what force the United States can bring into the field next campaign? On what resources they rely for their maintenance, and necessary appointments? And what shall be the general plan of the campaign, on supposition either of having, or not having, the aid of ships of war? He gives it as his opinion, that an application for clothing may be made to his most Christian Majesty with prospect of success; and although measures have been taken for sending arms and warlike stores to America, yet it would be prudent in Congress not to neglect any other means for procuring those supplies, or supplies of clothing.¹

Ordered, That it be referred to the said committee, and that they report thereon.

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee on the letter from Major General Greene, quartermaster general, relative to the claim of Mr. S. Moore, and some time being spent thereon,

Ordered, That it be re-committed.²

A letter from General Washington was read, enclosing one, of 16, from Brigadier du Portail;

Also one, of 26, from the same, was read, respecting Colonel Bland.

Ordered, That they be referred to the Board of War.

Two letters, of 27, from the General, were read.¹

Resolved, That Congress are impressed with a high sense of the attachment and zeal of the magistrates and inhabitants of the State of New Jersey, in the common cause; and of their ready and effectual exertions in providing and furnishing the army, under his Excellency the Commander in Chief, with provisions, at a time when the difficulty of transportation rendered such exertions absolutely necessary.

The committee, to whom was referred the summary of the communications from the Minister of France, brought in a report, which, being read and debated by paragraphs, was agreed to.

Congress taking into consideration the foregoing communications,

Resolved, That the following answer be given to the communications of the honourable the Minister Plenipotentiary of France: That Congress entertain the most grateful sense of the unremitting attention given to the interests of the United States by their illustrious ally; and consider the communications made to them by his minister under his Majesty’s special command as equally wise and interesting. That the boundless confidence which they repose in his Majesty, in consequence of his so generously interesting himself in the affairs of these United States, and the wisdom and magnanimity of his councils, determines them to give the most perfect information in their power of their resources, their views and their expectations.

That to this end, they state as follows: That the United States have expectations on which they can rely with confidence of bringing into the field an army of 25,000 effective men, exclusive of commissioned officers. That this army can be reinforced by militia so as to be in force sufficient for any enterprises against the posts occupied by the enemy within the United States. That supplies of provisions for the army in its greatest number can certainly be obtained within the United States; and the Congress, with the cooperation of the several states, can take effectual measures for procuring them in such manner as that no operation will be impeded. That provision also for such of the forces of his most Christian Majesty as may be employed in conjunction or co-operation with those of the United States, can be procured under the direction of Congress; and such provision shall be laid up in magazines, agreeably to such instructions as his Majesty’s Minister Plenipotentiary shall give; and the magazines shall be put under the direction of the agent of the marine of France. That Congress rely on the contributions of the states by taxes, and on moneys to be raised by internal loans for the pay of the army. That supplies of clothing, of tents, of arms and warlike stores, must be principally obtained from foreign nations; and the United States must rely chiefly on the assistance of their ally for them; but every other means for procuring them are already taken, and will be prosecuted with the greatest diligence. That the United States, with the assistance of a competent naval force, would willingly, during the next campaign, carry on the most vigorous offensive operations against the enemy in all the posts occupied by them within the United States. That without such naval force, little more can be attempted by them than straitening the quarters of the enemy, and covering the interior parts of the country. That their forces must be disposed in such manner as to oppose the enemy with the greatest effect, wheresoever their most considerable operations may be directed. That at present the southern states seem to be their principal object, and their design to establish themselves in one or more of them; but their superiority at sea over the United States enables them to change their objects and operations with great facility, while those of the United States are rendered difficult by the great extent of country they have to defend. That Congress are happy to find that his most Christian Majesty gives no credit to the suggestions of the British cabinet relative to the dispositions of the United States, or any of them, to enter into treaties of accommodation with Great Britain; and wish his Majesty and all the powers of Europe to be assured, that such suggestions are insidious and without foundation. That it will appear by the constitutions and other publick acts of the several states, that the citizens of the United States possessed of arms, possessed of freedom, possessed of political power to create and direct their magistrates as they think proper, are united in their determinations to secure to themselves and their posterity the blessings of liberty, by supporting the independence of their governments, and observing their treaties and publick engagements with immovable firmness and fidelity. And the Congress assure his Majesty, that should any individual in America be found base enough to show the least disposition for persuading the people to the contrary, such individual would instantly lose all power of effecting his purpose, by forfeiting the esteem and confidence of the people.¹

The said committee report, That in a second conference with the honourable the Minister Plenipotentiary of France he communicated to them—

That his most Christian Majesty, being uninformed of the appointment of a minister plenipotentiary to treat of an alliance between the United States and his Catholick Majesty, has signified to his Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, that he wishes most earnestly for such an alliance; and in order to make the way thereto more easy, has commanded him to communicate to the Congress certain articles which his Catholick Majesty deems of great importance to the interests of his crown, and on which it is highly necessary that the United States explain themselves with precision, and with such moderation as may consist with their essential rights.

That the articles are—

1. A precise and invariable western boundary to the United States.

2. The exclusive navigation of the river Mississippi.

Congress, No. 28, I, 181. A copy in Thomsen’s hand is on folio 189. It was entered atic Correspondence of the American Revolution (Wharton) III, 485.

January, 1780

3. The possession of the Floridas; and
4. The lands on the left or eastern side of the river Mississippi.

That on the first article, it is the idea of the cabinet of Madrid that the United States extend to the westward no farther than settlements were permitted by the royal proclamation bearing date the day of 1763.

On the second, that the United States do not consider themselves as having any right to navigate the river Mississippi, no territory belonging to them being situated thereon.

On the third, that it is probable the king of Spain will conquer the Floridas during the course of the present war; and in such event, every cause of dispute relative thereto between Spain and these United States ought to be removed.

On the fourth, that the lands lying on the east side of the Mississippi, whereon the settlements were prohibited by the aforesaid proclamation, are possessions of the crown of Great Britain, and proper objects against which the arms of Spain may be employed, for the purpose of making a permanent conquest for the Spanish crown. That such conquest may, probably, be made during the present war. That therefore it would be advisable to restrain the southern states from making any settlements or conquests in those territories. That the council of Madrid consider the United States as having no claims to those territories, either as not having had possession of them before the present war, or not having any foundation for a claim in the right of the sovereignty of Great Britain, whose dominion they have abjured.

That his most Christian Majesty, united to the Catholick King by blood and by the strictest alliances, and united with these states in treaties of alliance, and feeling towards them dispositions of the most perfect friendship, is exceedingly desirous of conciliating between his Catholick Majesty and these United States, the most happy and lasting friendship.

That the United States may repose the utmost confidence in his good will to their interests, and in the justice and liberality of his Catholick Majesty; and that he cannot deem the revolution which has set up the independence of these United States as past all danger of unfavourable events, until his Catholick Majesty and the United States shall be established on those terms of confidence and amity which are the objects of his most Christian Majesty's very earnest wishes.¹

The Board of Admiralty sent in a report for establishing packets; and the Board of War sent in a report for apportioning the quotas of men to be raised by the several States.

Admiralty Office Feb. 1, 1780.

The Board pursuant to a motion referred to them for establishing regular packets between these United States and the Kingdom of France beg leave to Report the following plan.

That three Packet Boats be established by the Board of Admiralty to sail from hence for Nantes in the Kingdom of France as soon as may be after the first Tuesday in the months of April June August October December and February annually during said establishment.

That the mails be made up in the Post office in Philadelphia on said days and that the Post Master General fix the Postage of all private letters carried by said Packet boats.

That the said Packet Boats sail from Nantes aforesaid for Delaware or Chesapeake Bays as soon as may be after the first Thursday in the months of June, August, October, December, February, and April Annually on which days the mails are to be made up in France.

That the Minister Plenipotentiary of these United States at the Court of France appoint some suitable person for that purpose and for fixing and receiving the postage of private letters there.

That the Captains of Said Packet boats follow such directions as the Board of Admiralty shall give them from time to time, the said Board conforming themselves in their directions as nearly as possible to the foregoing Resolutions.1

The want of certain information of the strength of each State in the Union, induced the Board to request Congress to settle the relative proportion of any given number of Troops to be drawn from the States, by which they might adjust the quotas necessary for the next campaign. Congress having been pleased to direct the Board in the first instance to make such adjustment, they have been obliged to recur to the first apportionment of the 88 Battalions, as the least exceptionable, only excluding Georgia on account of her

In the whole amounting to 35,211 which number arises from the following estimate, viz.

Infantry—including the rank and file only 24,000

Sergeants and musick for 79 Regts (the number of Regts now existing) of the original 88 3,871

Sergeants and music for 10 additional Corps 500

Officers' Servants, as well for the 79 Regts as for the Officers of the independent Corps, and Gen' Officers who in time of action will probably be sent with their Masters Baggage 2000

Artificers and Waggoneers, including drivers of the artillery and ammunition waggons 1600

Cavalry, 900 Sergeants and music 100 1000

Servants of the Officers of Cavalry 80

Artillery 1008, Matrosses 912, Sergeants, Corporals, gunners and bombardiers, 96 drums and fifes and 88 artificers attached to the Artillery 2000

Servants to Artillery Officers 160

Making in the whole 35,211

They have added to this account, the Artillery and Cavalry that when the men belonging to those Corps are credited to the States in which they were raised (agreeably to the Resolution of Congress) the deductions thereby made from their quotas of Infantry might not reduce the latter in the whole below 24,000 rank and file. From this number, sickness and desertions will probably take off one fifth part by the middle of the campaign; so that the operating force of Infantry for the main army, that in Carolina, and on the frontiers will not then exceed 19,200 rank and file.

In making this estimate, they have rejected all those men—returned in the abstract of the muster—rolls of October, whose times of service will expire between that day and the first of July preceding, (when the Campaign may be considered as commencing) being only

If 79 battalions (as Georgia is excluded) were to be completed to their full complement, agreeably to the establishment of May 1778 the number of troops would amount to 43,687 including the sergeants and music with the rank and file.

The Regimented Artificers in the departments of the Qr Master Gen' and Comm' Gen' of Military Stores will amount to about 500 men which when credited to the States, will be a deduction of so many from the military force before stated. Another deduction will be made by drafting from the Line three companies of sappers and miners which with the servants of the Engineers and Officers of the sappers and miners will amount to 220 men.

If the whole number of Sergeants in the 79 battalions and 10 independent Corps be added to the 24,000 rank and file the amount will be

\[ \text{26,581} \]

from which if one fifth for sickness and desertions be deducted. \[ \text{5.316} \]

there will remain

men armed with muskets and bayonets—a force small enough they conceive for any decisive operations the next campaign.

In regard to Officers' Servants, it is to be regretted that thereby such a deduction from the strength of the army should be made, but it is Gen' Washington's opinion, as well as our own, that officers must be furnished with servants from the line, their appointments being insufficient to procure them in any other way. When a stricter discipline is introduced perhaps the number withdrawn from action may be lessened thereby. For carrying this plan into execution the Board beg leave to report the following Resolutions

That for the ensuing campaign, the States be respectively required to furnish by drafts or otherwise on or before the first day of April next their respective deficiencies of the number of 35,211 men which Congress deem necessary for the service of the present year. The quotas of the several States to be fixed in the following manner—viz: (as mentioned in the first page)
That all the men whose times of service do not expire before the last day of September next, be counted towards the quotas of the States to which they respectively belong, whether they compose the Battalions in the line of the Several States—those of the additional Corps including the guards, the artillery and horse—or the regimented artificers in the Departments of the Q' Master Gen' or Comm' Gen' of Military Stores who being credited to the States respectively should be provided for, deemed and treated in the same manner with the men in the several State lines. And it is recommended to the several States to make like provision for the Officers and men of the Artillery, Horse, additional Battalions including the guards and regimented Artificers, as may be made in pursuance of any resolution of Congress for the Officers and men of their respective Battalions, with such exceptions respecting the regimented artificers, as have been made by Congress in their Acts concerning them.

That the Commander in Chief be directed forthwith to transmit to the several States accurate returns of the Troops now in service, belonging, or credited to their respective quotas, to the intent that immediate measures be taken by the Govmt of the States, to bring the men to be raised, into the field with certainty and expedition.

The Board have adjusted the quotas without regard to any particular number of Regt into which the troops of each State may finally be divided—for tho' the formation of Regiments into equal numbers would be attended with many advantages, yet if any precise number of Regts and their strength were fixed for each State, the credit to be given for their men in the artillery, horse and extra Corps would immediately produce considerable inequalities

The other points relative to the Army, referred at the same time to the Board, they will report upon without delay

The committee, to whom was re-committed their report on General Greene's letter, respecting Mr. Moore, and the Board of Admiralty, delivered in reports.

The Committee to whom was referred the letter from Gen'l Greene, and the papers respecting the quantity and value of the wood cut on the farm of Mr. Stephen Moore at West Point, for the purpose of supplying the Army with wood, and for the erecting of fortifications, beg leave to report, that in the opinion of your Committee it will be for the interest of the United States to purchase the said farm of Mr. Stephen Moore, who will agree to sell the same, for a sum of money equivalent to what shall be deemed to have been the value thereof in the year 1774, and a sum equivalent to what shall be deemed to have been the value of two years rent for the said farm; by such persons as Congress shall hereafter appoint for that purpose; provided Congress will advance to him at present forty thousand dollars in part of the purchase money to be paid him for the said farm. If Congress should judge it expedient to purchase the said farm, Your Committee would propose the following resolution, to wit,

Resolved, That whereas Congress have agreed with Mr. Stephen Moore for the purchase of his farm at West Point containing 1080 Acres, for the use of the United States, for a sum of money equivalent to what shall be deemed to have been the value of the said farm in the year 1774 and also the value of the rent thereof for two years, by such persons as Congress shall hereafter appoint for that purpose, at which time the said Stephen Moore is to make sufficient conveyances for the said farm to such person or persons as Congress shall direct for the use of the United States, and whereas Congress have agreed to advance to the said Stephen Moore 40,000 dollars in part of the purchase money to be paid him for his said farm, Ordered that the two following warrants issue in his favor for the said sum to wit, One on Michael Hillegar Esq' Continental Treasurer for ten thousand dollars, and one on Richard Caswell Esq' Governor of the State of North Carolina for thirty thousand dollars, to be paid out of the monies raised by the said State for the use of the United States, for which the Board of Treasury will take a proper receipt of Mr. Moore.
February, 1780

binding him to make the conveyance for his said farm agreeable to the foregoing resolution. ¹

The Board of Admiralty and Committee of Commerce to whom was referred the consideration of committing the business of the latter to the direction of the Admiralty beg leave to Report.

That from the present very confused State of the Commercial transactions consisting in a variety of complicated accounts to be adjusted with your several agents in Europe, the West Indies and United States, many of which are confusedly blended with the Marine, Navy boards, Commercial Committees &c.

Your Referees are of opinion it will be absolutely necessary that one or more clerks of sufficient capacity with a competent salary be appointed to make a thorough and accurate investigation of all commercial transactions up to the present time, subject to the superintendence of your Admiralty Board. That business compleated the Board may be competent to the future direction of Commercial affairs.²

A motion being made to empower Major General Lincoln to draw for money on the governor of South Carolina,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury, to report a proper resolution.

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Francis Hopkinson, treasurer of loans, for one thousand nine hundred and forty eight dollars and thirty ninetieths of a dollar, in full of his charge for office rent and fire wood for the commissioners appointed to destroy the emissions of May 20th, 1777, and April 11, 1778, from the first day of May, 1779, to the first day of February, 1780.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Mr.
Samuel] Holten, one of the delegates for the State of Massachusetts Bay, on his application, for five thousand dollars; for which the said State is to be accountable.

February, 1780

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of the delegates for the State of Massachusetts Bay, for eight hundred dollars, for the use of that State, which is to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Jonathan Burrall, on account of William Palfrey, paymaster general, for five hundred thousand dollars, to be by him transmitted to John Pierce, deputy paymaster general to the main army, for the use of the department; and for which the said deputy paymaster general is to be accountable.

The Board having considered the Letter from the Board of War of the 3d instant referred to them by Congress requiring an immediate supply of two million six hundred and forty eight thousand dollars in favor of the Pay Master to the Board of War and Ordnance for the purposes of making purchases to supply the deficiencies of cloathing in the Continental Army think it necessary to report to Congress the state of the Treasury that the Board may receive such instructions as Congress may judge proper.

This Board have now before them the return of Michael Hillegas Esq; Treasurer up to the 5th of the present month by which it appears there was then in the Treasury two million three hundred thousand dollars, which sum has been greatly diminished by warrants on the Treasury since that date. So that there is not at this time in the Treasury more than One million two hundred thousand dollars.1

The committee, to whom were referred the letters from the governor and speaker of the house of assembly of the State of Georgia, and the resolves of the said assembly, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Resolved, That Congress highly applaud the unremitted exertions of the State of Georgia, and the zeal and firmness expressed through the governor and speaker of the house of representatives manifested by them under all their difficulties; and that the State of Georgia may be assured no endeavours will be wanting on the part of Congress to promote her interests.\(^1\)

Resolved, That the quota of continental troops of the State of Georgia be, the ensuing campaign, one battalion of infantry and one regiment of horse.

Resolved, That Congress approve the plan adopted by the State of Georgia for reducing the four regiments of that State into one, for officering the same, and also the regiment of cavalry.

Resolved, That such officers as cannot be employed in the line of that State be deemed supernumeraries, and entitled to every privilege with officers in like situation.

Resolved, That the President inform the governor of the State of Georgia that a general exchange of prisoners is now negotiating, and due regard will undoubtedly be paid to Colonel Elbert.

Resolved, That notwithstanding the high sense Congress entertain of the merit of Colonel Elbert, Congress cannot at present promote him to the rank of a brigadier general in the continental army, as such promotion would be productive of great confusion and discontent in the line of the army.

Resolved, that Genl Lincoln be directed to employ Genl McIntosh in the State of South Carolina, or elsewhere out of the State of Georgia.

Resolved, that a warrant issue on the Treasury in favour of the Governor and executive council of the State of Georgia for $1,000,000 dollars for which the said State is to be accountable.

Ordered, That the resolution respecting the exchange of Colonel Elbert, be transmitted to General Washington.\(^2\)

\(^1\) An indorsement on the report says: "Query: is not the Preamble too florid for such a body as Congress?" and the following is added in another hand: "That Congress contemplates the spirited exertions of the State of Georgia with great satisfaction, and that they may be assured, &c., following the report."

Ordered, That so much of the report as relates to an advance of money to the State of Georgia, and the application of Captain Nash, for an advance of six thousand dollars, be referred to the Board of Treasury. 1

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR Feb'y 9, 1780

Present Col ² Pickering, Mr. Peters, Col ² Grayson

The Board beg leave to lay before Congress the inclosed petition of Christian Mancke with Colonel Armand's certificate concerning him. He was a Lieut. and Adjutant in Ottendorfs corps, afterwards commanded by Col. Armand, and appeared to be a diligent and attentive officer. That Corps being reduced to a very small number, and having a surplus of officers, Mr. Mancke quitted it, and accepted a Lieutenantcy in Van Heers corps of Marechausseurs (or the provost) and served the last campaign, but being by the expenses unavoidable to an officer, and the smallness of his pay, reduced as he says, to poverty after spending considerable sums of his own money, he was compelled to resign, being unable to subsist in the service. He now requests only the moderate sum of one thousand dollars to purchase a little clothing and enable him to get to St Eustatia where he may find the means of returning to his own country. The Board having considered his case, beg leave to report

Ordered, That one thousand dollars be granted to Christian Mancke, late lieutenant in the army of the United States, in which he served three campaigns, towards defraying the expenses of his voyage home to Europe. ²

A letter, of 8th, from General Washington, was read. ³

A letter from General Lee was read, in the words following,

¹ A copy of the resolve authorizing the advance of a million dollars to Georgia, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, IV, folio 89. It is endorsed:

"Referred to Board of Treasury. Passed Feb'y. 12, 1780."

² This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, IV, folio 115.

³ This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 152, VIII, folio 401.
Sir,

I have this day received your letter with my submission from the service of the United States, nor can I complain of it as an act of injustice. The greatest respect is indisputably due to every public body of men and above all, to those who are the representatives, and at the same time, the legislature of a free people, and I ingeniously confess that the note which I dictated was so far from being dressed in terms properly respectful, that they were highly improper, disrespectful and even contumacious. But altho I do not mean to justify the measure, I flatter myself that I shall be able to extenuate the offensiveness, by relating the circumstances which gave birth to it. I, unfortunately, Sir, received letters from two friends, whose zeal for my service seems to have been greater than their intelligence was authentic, informing me that the same men, who by art and management had brought about in a thin house, the confirmation of the absurd and iniquitous sentence of the court martial, were determined to pursue the matter still further, and on the pretence of economy to make a motion for the final removal of me from the army as an encumbrance. It happened that at the very moment these letters came to my hands, I was very much indisposed, so much as not to be able to write myself, and at the same time, my horses were at the door to carry me down the country, where business called me. The bodily pain I was in, joined to the misinformation I received, ruffled my temper beyond all bounds, and the necessity of setting out immediately prevented me giving myself time to consider of the propriety, or impropriety, of what I was about. And thus, these two circumstances concurring gave birth to the note which I dictated, which no man can more sincerely reprobate than I do myself, and for which I most sincerely beg pardon of the Congress. But, Sir, I must entreat that in thus acknowledging the impropriety and indecorum of my conduct in this affair, it may not be supposed that I mean to court a restoration to the rank I held. So far from it, that I do assure 'em, had not this incident fallen out, I should have requested Congress to have accepted of my resignation, as from obvious reasons, whilst the army is continued in its present circumstances, I could not have served with safety and dignity. My present acknowledgments therefore of the impropriety and indecorum of the measure, I suffered myself to be hurried into, and my submission without a complaint, to the consequent decision of Congress, will, I hope, be attributed to the real motive, the conviction of having really done wrong. I shall now, Sir, conclude with sincerely wishing that Congress may find many servants ready to make as great sacrifices, as I have made, and possessed with the same degree of zeal for their service, as has from the beginning governed all my actions, but with the good fortune never by one act of imprudence to incur their displeasure, and I can without arrogance assert on self examination, that this is the only step, in the whole line of my conduct, which could justly furnish matter of offence to that honourable body. I am, Sir, with the greatest respect
February, 1780

Yr most obedient humble servt

His Excellency, the President of Congress.¹

A report of the Board of War was read, respecting Major Lee's corps:

AT A BOARD OF WAR Feb: 12. 1780

Present Col. Pickering, Mr. Peters Col Grayson

The Baron Steuben having certified to the Board that in his judgement an augmentation of the Infantry of Major Lee's Corps will enable the major to operate in the line of duty prescribed to him with more safety and effect; and that as the Corps is already formed on the legionary plan, it is essential to its perfection, that the number of infantry be at least equal to that of the cavalry; a system on which it would in the opinion of the Board be proper to form all the cavalry in the service of the United States, and it being alleged that men can be easily procured to serve in the Corps, and which being a Corps out of the line will not affect the arrangement thereof

Agreed

That recruiting money be furnished Major Lee to enable him to enlist seventy privates to serve as dismounted dragoons in addition to those now in the Corps, the whole to be formed into three troops.²

Ordered, That it be referred to the Commander in Chief.

The Board of Treasury, to whom was referred a motion, relative to the supply of money to the southern department, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Journals of Congress

That though the highest confidence is deservedly placed in the Officer now Commanding in Chief in that Department, and there is not the least objection on account of risque, to vest him with the power proposed, yet as a precedent will thereby be established which may operate disadvantageously hereafter, and it is altogether uncertain how long any particular Officer may command there, and moreover being doubtful whether subjecting the Governor to the Drafts of any such Officer would be well received they are of opinion it would be preferable to take proper conveyances as they occur and draw orders on the Governor in the usual way—They therefore propose it be resolved

That on the application of Jonathan Burrall Assis't to Col' Palfrey Pay Mast' Gen'l a warrant issue in his favor on his Excellency John Rutledge Esq' Governor of the State of South Carolina for one million of dollars being part of the monies raised in the said State for the use of the United States to be transmitted to Joseph Clay Esq' D'r Pay Master Gen'l in the Southern Department for the supply of the military chest there and for which the said D'r Pay Master Gen'l is to be accountable.

Resolved, That the commanding officer in the southern department be authorized to draw on the Governor of the State of South Carolina.

Resolved, That the governor and privy council of the State of South Carolina be requested to advance, from time to time, to the military chest, such sums of money, being part of the taxes raised in the said State, for the use of the United States, as they, on consulting the commanding officer in the southern department, may find necessary for the public service there, advising the Board of Treasury thereof: and that, on receipt of the documents shewing such payments respectively, the said Board credit the State with the same, from the dates when they were severally made, according to the resolution of Congress of 6th October last.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of John Foster, on account of Captain Clement Nash, charged with dispatches to Congress from the executive of the State of Georgia, for six thousand dollars, for which the said State is to be accountable, and that the said executive be furnished with a copy of this order.

Congress resumed the consideration of the proceedings of the court martial on the trial of Major General Arnold, and the same being gone through;

AT A BOARD OF WAR FEBY 12th 1780

Present Col' Pickering, Mr. Peters, Col' Grayson

The Board having considered the petition of Mr. Wheelock, President of Dartmouth College, relative to the maintenance of some Indian Youths from the Tribes in Canada, with the other papers referred therewith, and inquired into the condition and population of the new settlements on Connecticut river, near the centre of which settlements Dartmouth College is situated; They beg leave to observe That in these settlements there are about 2,500 families in an extent of about 140 miles, one fifth part of which are within a tract from about 100 to 140 miles only distant from Montreal.

That the passage from Canada to these settlements would be extremely easy to the Savages—that the safety of these settlements from the inroads of the Indians depends only on their friendship—

1 At this point the entries were made by Thomas Edison.
that before the war the youths above mentioned were placed at Dartmouth College for instruction—that hitherto the tribes from whence they came have discovered a uniform friendship to the United States—that the interest of the latter as well as the security of the considerable settlements above mentioned, do in the opinion of the Board require that the friendship of those tribes be still cultivated and preserved—that the support and education of these youths who are of the principal families of those tribes will have the best tendency to this end (and the same policy extended towards other tribes would doubtless produce effects equally beneficial), that the funds of that College destined for the support and instruction of Indian Youths being raised and fixed in Great Britain Mr. Wheelock is deprived of almost the only means of maintaining them—that he and his Father have incurred a great expense on account of the youths educated at the College and can not longer support those now there without some aid. The Board therefore beg leave to report

That a Warrant issue on the Treasurer in favor of Bezaleel Woodward Esq one of the Trustees of Dartmouth College for 5000 Dollars towards the expences of supporting and instructing several Indian Youths of the Caghawaga and other northern tribes at said College; the said sum to be by him delivered to and disposed of for the purposes aforesaid, by the Trustees of said College.¹

The Committee to whom was referred the acc⁷ of Major Gen' Arnold, having attended that business as far as they could consistent with their other public engagements, find it impracticable, for a committee of Congress to adjust the said accounts with that accuracy and attention which the nature of them demand, and at the same time discharge their duty in other respects, and as a Board of Treasury, with proper officers has lately been established and the business of liquidating accounts is now carried on in a regular manner: Whereupon, your Committee beg leave to report that the said accounts with the papers accompanying the same be referred to the Board of Treasury to be there adjusted agreeable to the institution thereof.¹

belonging to the State Store of Pennsylvania, which they find trifling in comparison with the wants of the Staff; and a great part of it, consists of remnants unfit for Officers—

The Board will endeavor to comply with the desires of the Gentlemen of the staff in general, and will undertake to furnish any particular department which Congress may think proper to discriminate from the rest—provided they are supplied with the means for that purpose. The sum necessary for clothing the whole staff, will be about Six millions of dollars according to a rough calculation they have made. Besides these there are many officers in the Extra Corps not supplied by any particular State, who stand in equal need of clothing. A provision for them will greatly augment the sum.¹

TREASURY OFFICE Feb 17, 1780

Many persons having demands on the Officers in the Staff Departments of the Army who intend on the receipt of the monies due to invest them in the Funds:

The Board of Treasury are of opinion that it will answer a beneficial purpose to authorize the Commissioners of the several Continental Loan Offices to issue Certificates for ascertained debts in the names of the persons to whom the debts are payable upon application of the Principals of the Departments of the Quarter Master and Commissary General, the balances being authentically certified to them; and that the Certificates bear date as of the time the several debts became due, provided none be dated earlier than the first of January 1780.

The Board request the sense of Congress on this matter.¹

AT A BOARD OF WAR Feb: 14, 1780

Present Col Pickering M’ Peters, Col Grayson

The Board having considered the letter of L Col White referred to them by Congress beg leave to report, That by resolution of the 4th of Feb last it was directed, ‘‘That the Commander in Chief be directed to proceed in such manner as he shall judge expedient to complete the arrangement of the army and to settle the relative rank of Officers under the degree of Brigadier, agreeably to the principles established by an act of Congress of the 24th day of November 1778, and that the Board of War furnish him with copies of the proceedings of the late Committee of arrangement."

By this resolution it appears that the Commander in Chief was vested with full powers to settle and determine all matters not before adjusted with respect to the arrangement of the army, comprehending under this description as well the artillery and horse as the infantry. With respect to the latter it was expressly established as a rule "that no more Colonels be appointed in the infantry, but where any such commission is, or shall become vacant, the Battalion shall be commanded by a Lieut. Col. who shall be allowed the same pay as is now granted to a Col. of infantry, and shall rise in promotion from that to the rank of Brigadier and such Battalion shall have only two field officers viz, a Lieut. Col. and a Major, but it shall have an additional Captain." This rule was in full force as to the infantry at the time of passing the resolve of the 24th Nov., referred to in the General's authority to complete the arrangement of the army, and from the complexion of that resolve throughout, it appears that the cavalry and artillery were meant to be comprehended in every general principle of rank settled for the army. The Commander in Chief has in consequence of the power vested in him proceeded under this opinion in which we perfectly coincide, as both the uniformity of discipline and peace of the army demand that there should be distinctions in this respect. Lt: Col. White in person produced to us the Commander in Chief's certificate of his rank as Lieut: Col. Commandant, and we directed the commission to be filled up as a matter of course. Having thus explained ourselves on the subject we beg leave to recommend that it be resolved That in the opinion of Congress the same general principles of rank were intended to pervade the whole army and that the promotions of the artillery and horse be determined by the rules executed with regard to the infantry—that on the death, removal or resignation of Colonels of the artillery and horse the regiments be commanded by Lieutenant Colonels Commandant and that no promotions to the rank of Colonel either in the artillery or cavalry be made on vacancies happening after the 27th of May, 1778.1

A letter of this day from Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry was read.¹

At a Board of War Feb'y 19. 1780.
Present Col Pickering, Mr' Peters, Col Grayson
The Board having considered the motion made in Congress for a reduction of the army, and the letter from His Excellency Gen' Washington, of the 23d of January, beg leave to inform Congress, that in every point of view in which the subject can be placed, they can only discover a choice of difficulties. Whether the advantages to be derived from the measure, will be equal to the disgusts that will be created in the course of its execution, remains with Congress to determine.

In investigating the subject, they discover numberless embarrassments by pursuing any general system for the accomplishment of the end proposed, and yet it seems to be indispensable, that the reduction should be effected upon general maxims, without regard to particular persons, or comparative merit.

¹ This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 78, X, folio 219.
February, 1780

Should Congress determine to carry the measure into execution, the board are of opinion, that a Committee should be appointed for the purpose, (with ample powers to pervade the whole business) to go to Head quarters and consult with the Commander in Chief on the most proper steps to be taken for a new arrangement of the army. By being on the spot, they would not only have the best information as to facts (which is a matter of very great consequence) but also an opportunity of taking advantage of any circumstances that might occur in advancement of the measure. There is no doubt but many Officers would of themselves chuse to retire, if it could be done consistent with their honor, and the good of their country; And others might be induced to the measure if they had such a provision made for them as it might be prudent and just in Congress to bestow.

Such a Committee would have an opportunity of conversing with the Officers, and knowing the disposition of the army, and if the arrangement was found to be inexpedient, might give it over altogether, or only execute it in those cases where it could be effected without uneasiness.

If any general rule of conduct was adopted in the first instance, it would be essential to the dignity of Congress not to recede from it on account of any opposition it might meet with. Congress well know that the reduction of armies even in absolute Governments is attended with great difficulty. In our particular circumstances it would require the utmost delicacy and circumspection.

"Tis a piece of justice due to the army, that they should be in some measure compensated for the sacrifices they have made for the good of their country. Their virtuous exertions in the general cause while many others have been engaged in the advancement of their private fortunes, should not be unrewarded. The board are of opinion that full pay and subsistence during the war, and the same emoluments after its conclusion, as those are to receive who continue in service, will be but a small compensation for the officers who shall be found supernumerary. There not being sufficient commands to enable them to remain in the army, is not a circumstance which depends on themselves, but on the inability of the country to furnish them.

The Board therefore beg leave to report,
That a Committee be appointed to confer with the Commander in Chief on the means of reducing the number of regiments in the army.
That the said Committee in conjunction with the Commander in Chief, be empowered (if a reduction be by them found expedient) to fix the number of regiments to be kept up, and arrange the Officers therein in such manner as they shall judge most conducive to the public good, and to establish the terms on which the officers for whom there are no immediate commands, may be permitted to absent themselves from the army.
That the Committee repair immediately to Head quarters and on their return, report their proceedings to Congress.
That it be recommended to the Governments of the several States to suspend filling up vacancies of officers in their respective lines.¹

A letter, of the 17th, from General Washington, was read: Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of War.
The Board of War, to whom was referred General Schuyler’s letter, of the 5th, brought in a report, which was read; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, Feby 19, 1780

Present Col⁴ Pickering, Mr Peters, Col Grayson

The Board having considered Gen¹ Schuyler’s letter of the 5th instant, agree in sentiment with the Commissioners of Indian affairs in the Northern department as to the policy of the measures recommended by them with respect to ensuring the performance of any engagements the savages may make, but whether the Indians will deem it politic on their side is yet problematical, as it will have a tendency to embroil them with the Enemy. It therefore seems necessary to give discretionary powers to the Commissioners in this respect, as any plan established here may interfere with circumstances arising in the course of the Treaty. If the Indians can be prevailed on to take an active part with us, it will certainly be the best means of insuring their fidelity to the United States by involving them in our contest and its consequences. But their operations will much depend upon the supplies we give them, and it is a question whether we are able to support them when they throw themselves entirely upon us, if we do not supply them, they may make it a pretext for breaking the Treaty from necessity. But if a Treaty of amity and strict neutrality could be established, we should not be deemed responsible for any supplies farther than was consistent with our convenience and abilities. But this is a matter on which the board do not form any decided opinion, leaving it to the judgment of Congress, and those they have been pleased to entrust with the business.

They beg leave to report,

Resolved, That the Commissioners of Indian affairs in the Northern department, be authorized and instructed to take such securities from the hostile tribes of Indians as shall appear best calculated to secure the faithful performance of their engagements the savages may make at any treaty entered into with them by with the said commissioners for establishing peace and friendship between the said Indians and the inhabitants of these States, as to them shall seem best adapted to circumstances as seem most conducive to the end proposed without confining themselves to any particular method or measure heretofore pointed out by Congress for that purpose, in lieu of hostages.

That a Warrant issue on the Treasurer in favor of the pay master of the Board of War and Ordnance for the sum of $1,000 dollars to be transmitted to the commissioners of Indian affairs in the Northern department for the purpose of defraying the expense of an expected Treaty with the hostile Tribes of Savages, and for rewarding by proper presents the Oneidas and Tuscarurraes who have continued faithfully attached to the interest of these States.1

Ordered, That the last paragraph of the report, relative to an advance of money for the purpose of defraying the expense of an expected Treaty with the hostile tribes of Indians, be referred to the Board of Treasury.

Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of Treasury.

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

Colonel Armand, Marquis de la Rouerie, having applied for promotion to the rank of brigadier in the service of the United States; and Congress, (though conscious of his merit, and that he has upon all occasions exhibited undoubted and distinguished proofs of his great zeal, activity and vigilance, intelligence and bravery; and in the last campaign particularly, rendered very valuable services) not thinking it expedient under the present circumstances of the army to comply with his request, as it would too much interfere with the arrangements lately established, and be injurious to the rights of other colonels who have been longer in service than Colonel Armand; and being desirous, as well to promote the public interest as to testify their good opinion of Colonel Armand, by affording him an opportunity of continuing in the service of the United States;⁵

Resolved, That the remains of the legion of the late Count Pulaski be incorporated with the corps of Colonel Armand, Marquis de la Rouerie, in such manner as the commander in chief of the southern army shall think proper: the united corps to be formed into a legion to be commanded by Colonel Armand; provided, however, that General Lincoln has not already entered into measures for complying with the resolution of Congress of December 29th, 1779.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favor of Colonel Armand, for twenty thousand dollars, to enable him to proceed on his march to join the southern army; for which he is to be accountable.⁶

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

The Board of Treasury having taken into their consideration the memorial of Col.' Jeduthun Baldwin Engineer in the service of the United States of the 16 of Feb referred to them by Congress beg leave to report.

That this Board are possessed of the settlement of Col. Baldwin's account from the Commissioners of accounts at Albany in which they charge the loss of the money mentioned by the memorialist upon this ground; that it was not necessary in their opinion, that Col. Baldwin, tho' possessed of a proper warrant from the Commander in Chief of the Department (as he was in a fortified place and where there was a Military Chest) to have drawn so considerable a sum before the calls upon him made it necessary, and contrary to what had been his usual practice.

That if he had forborne to draw but as he was necessitated to pay, this loss would not have happened, as the Military Chest was preserved in the retreat from Ticonderoga. Col. Baldwin on his part adduces proofs which as he alledged were not laid before the Commissioners, that he received the money on his warrant on the 22d day of June, only twelve days before the retreat, that on the evening before the evacuation, he applied to Gen'l S' Claeir who commanded the garrison, and informed him of his having a sum of public money in his possession, who advised him to send it with the Military Chest. It appears also from the testimony of Oliver How who lived with Col: Baldwin that at Skeensborough he helped Col: Eyres to get the Chest out of the Boat, that however on the sudden approach of the enemy, and being fired upon they were obliged to abandon the Chest without opening it to take away the two or three quires of money and other things which he saw the said Col: put into it (he himself having assisted in packing the Chest) and that it fell into the hands of the enemy. From all which circumstances strengthened by the affidavit of the said Baldwin to the facts alledged: The Board are of opinion that the loss should be sustained by the public, as all possible means in the power of said Baldwin appears to have been taken for the preservation of the money, and that had these proofs appeared before the Commissioners of Accounts, they would probably have allowed his claim, and therefore the Board propose it to be

March, 1780

The Committee to whom was referred the several letters from General Greene report the following draught of a letter in answer.

Sir:

Congress have resolved to call on the States for quotas of necessary articles to be laid up in magazines ready for the public exigencies and on the exertions of the States they must rely. But as sometime must intervene before supplies to be obtained in this way can be brought into use, and before any new arrangement of the Quartermaster General's Department can be compleated, they think it inexpedient that you should resign, and they wish you to continue making every possible exertion for forwarding the preparations for the next campaign, by every means which may be in your power.

Nothing can be more desirable to Congress than to have it in their power to put the public officers in a condition to perform their contracts and to compleat the necessary preparations. They are sensible of the importance of those assigned to your office and of the causes whence your difficulties arise but they have not been able to avail themselves of the resources of the United States to such a degree as to be entirely effectual, tho' they know them to be abundantly sufficient for the purposes of a vigorous defence of our country, the arrangements made for calling them out to public use will necessarily take sometime in the operation. The Congress hope that taxes will shortly be productive of money sufficient to pay off all the contracts made in the meantime for supplies, and to that use the first application thereof shall be appropriated. Congress desire as soon as possible to be furnished with a list particularly stated of all the debts due from your Department.

The Congress cannot admit that the necessary supplies of the produce of the country should be wanting while they abound everywhere in such plenty. Nor will they entertain an opinion so disgraceful to their Constituents as that of their refusing to sell them to the public officers on a reasonable credit when it is so apparent that their safety so much depends on the due supplying of the Army, and that it is extremely dangerous to their affairs to involve Congress in the necessity of having recourse to extraordinary expedients for supporting the public finances; but should Congress in this be mistaken, you are always to remember that the supplying of the Army is of so much importance to the affairs of the United States, that it must be done at all events. And if you must have recourse to extraordinary measures, you are to be particularly careful that every thing else has been previously attempted, and that your necessity is evident and unavoidable, and that no abuses be permitted, also that you put the persons who shall supply you in a situation to demand payment at a reasonable market-price.

With regard to your Deputies and Assistants, Congress have under consideration a new arrangement of your Department, which will be soon completed.

All which is submitted to Congress improved by twenty years' experience and several active campaigns under his Prussian Majesty.

2nd. That he was warmly recommended to the Com' of the United States at Paris by the Comte de Vergennes and the Comte D'S' Germain; that he embarked for America without any lucrative views as far as your Committee are enabled to judge from the whole tenor of his conduct, more particularly from his having made no contract of any kind with the Com' at Paris.

3rd. That since his appointment to the inspectorship he has greatly improved the discipline of the Army of the United States and introduced many regulations and manoeuvres equally useful and new.

4th. That his conduct has received the highest approbation of Gen' Washington, a considerable share of whose confidence he appears to enjoy.

5th. That he has received no compensation from Congress for the expenses of his voyage or his other expenditures since his arrival except an advance of 500 dollars and his appointments as a Maj' General, both of which have fallen considerably short of his necessary expenditures.

6th. That his continuance in the army of the United States will probably be attended with important advantages in perfecting the discipline which he has already introduced.

Upon this state of facts the Committee beg leave to report the following resolution:

Whereas, Maj' Gen' Steuben hath rendered essential services to the cause of America by the introduction of several improvements in military discipline and by his assiduous attention to the duties of his department,

That on the 23d of Feb' past, M' Mitchell informed this Board that he had the offer of M' Pemberton's House, which on enquiry was found well calculated for apartments for the offices of the Treasury, seven different apartments at this time being absolutely necessary,

That this Board directed M' Mitchell to take the said House and make the best terms of rent he could, the following day M' Mitchell gave information to this Board, that M' Pemberton's terms of rent were three hundred pounds in gold, paid into his hands that day by twelve OClock, or M' Pemberton would rent it to a person who was waiting for the answer of this Board. That being so pressed in time, and being well assured of the difficulty in providing other apartments, with the expectation of reducing the rent, by letting the Cellars, Stables, Coach house and other out Buildings, this Board determined to take the house aforesaid, not having it in their power in point of time to report first to Congress. That they have actually paid the rent aforesaid in Bills of Exchange on Spain—estimating the Exchange between Gold and Paper money at fifty for one.

The Board wish to have the opinion of Congress on this measure—as they think the House may be readily rented on the terms aforesaid, should Congress disapprove.

At the same time the Board beg leave further to report,

That M' Gibson (the owner of the house now occupied by the Treasury Board) is waiting for the possession of this, his own house to bring his family to. And this Board have not apartments, nor can be furnished with them, as they believe but in the house of M' Pemberton aforesaid.

The Board of Treasury report, that, on information, they find large supplies for the army have lately been collected in the State of New Jersey, in consequence of application of the Commander in Chief, either by the magistrates or by persons appointed for that end by the legislature; the accounts arising on which can be more conveniently paid and settled under the direction of the State than in any other mode; Whereupon,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislature of New Jersey, to take measures for the payment of the accounts arising for supplies lately furnished to the army, in consequence of the application of the Commander in Chief, in the mode which they may judge most conducive to the relief of those who have furnished them; including the same in their accounts against the United States, to be subject to examination in like manner as other charges.¹

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee on the memorials of the auditors of the army, &c.

Ordered, That it be re-committed.

The Board of Treasury having taken into consideration a letter of yesterday from Charles Pettit Esq; and another from Mr. Owen Biddle Dep't Com't of Forage in which the latter strongly urges the necessity of an immediate supply of three hundred thousand for particular uses in his Department, and without which heavy public losses must ensue, beg leave to report

The board have considered the petitions from sundry Soldiers at Wyoming, referred to them by Congress, and beg leave to observe; that if the circumstances therein stated, were well authenticated, which is not the case, neither Capt. Spalding nor any of his Officers having certified them, it would even then be inexpedient to grant the prayer of the Petitions. To admit the principle upon which the men expect to be discharged, would be to depopulate the army, there being thousands of our soldiers who have equal pretensions to the Indulgence of Congress

The Board therefore beg leave to report,

That the Prayer of the Petitions from sundry soldiers at Wyoming cannot be granted

The Board hoped that Congress would have been satisfied with, and approved of what they had done; Understanding however, the Report has been read, and nothing decided upon it, they are apprehensive what they have done in this matter is disagreeable to Congress. AT A BOARD OF WAR March 7, 1780

Present Col Pickering, M' Peters, Col Grayson

The board having considered the motions made in Congress by M' Burke on the 6\textsuperscript{th} instant, referred to them, are of opinion, that the present circumstances of the army under the command of His Excellency Gen\footnote{This letter is in the \textit{Papers of the Continental Congress}, No. 136, IV, folio 123.} Washington will not admit of a larger detachment for the southward, than one Brigade, to consist of about eight hundred men. They will not however undertake to determine decidedly on the subject, but think it would be most advisable to submit the expediency of the measure altogether to the General, who will have it in his power to augment or diminish the reinforcement as circumstances may require;

They therefore beg leave to report,

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the States of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, to have in readiness to act, as the operations of the campaign shall require, a body of five thousand militia or state troops, over and above their quotas of continental troops, in the following proportions, to wit: Virginia two thousand, North Carolina fifteen hundred, South Carolina fifteen hundred.

[That the militia directed to be held in readiness by the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, agreeable to the foregoing resolution, be called into actual service whenever the commanding officer in the southern department shall deem it necessary for the defence of the State of South Carolina or any other of the States within his command.]

That the Commander in Chief be directed to make such detachment from the troops under his command, to reinforce the southern army, as his strength and circumstances will permit.

A letter, of this day, from Colonel Armand was read:¹

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of War.

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR Feb'y 8th 1780

Present Col Pickering, Mr Peters, Col Grayson

The Board having taken into their farther consideration the papers referred to them by Congress on the 24th ult? are of opinion that one general system, throughout the United States, should be adopted for annually recruiting the army on equal and similar principles, that all particular benefits (which are ever productive of general disgust) should be excluded and the inducements to service placed in all respects on the same footing; therefore all ideas about State, Town or County bounties, are entirely improper; for though they produce the effect in the particular instance for which they are intended, yet when they are considered in their connexion with the general interest, they do not fail to occasion infinite mischief;

The same number of men, by an adherence to general maxims, might have been procured without incurring so enormous an expense, and without having any material influence on the depreciation of our currency. The board however do not mean to comprehend the case of applications from the Legislatures to the people of their respective states when arranged in particular classes. On the contrary, allowing them the alternative of producing a soldier either by draught or contribution of the members who compose the respective classes, the board apprehend will be productive of general advantage, this practice during the present contest in particular cases has been attended with very salutary effects.

They apprehend the distinction to be material between bounties which are offered by Public Bodies; and those which are given by Individuals: in the first case, it is an act of Public Authority; in the latter the contract is altogether private, and the only comparative inference that can be drawn from the disparity of bounties, is that one soldier is come from a less zealous, or a more liberal class of Fellow Citizens than another.

They beg leave to report

¹This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 164, folio 416.
March, 1780

That each State during the continuance of the present war, be annually informed by Congress in the month of October of the deficiency of its quota of troops, and be called upon to furnish by draughts, or otherwise, men for its complement, or such parts thereof, as Congress may from time to time judge necessary, and it is recommended to the Legislatures of the respective States to provide that no State, County, or Town bounties be given in any case whatever, it being the intention of Congress that the inducements to service throughout the continent, as near as circumstances, will admit, be placed on the same footing.

That the men to be so furnished, join the army by the first day of January in each year, and serve until the first day of January in the next succeeding year, unless sooner discharged.

That the executive authorities of the different States be respectively requested to appoint one general place of rendezvous in each State, where the drafts and recruits within their particular jurisdictions are to assemble and that they give information thereof to the Commander in Chief, to the end that a proper officer may be sent to each respective place, to examine the fitness, or unfitness of the drafts and recruits for service, and after rejecting such as are from improper age, defective constitutions, permanent disorders, or any other imperfection of body or mind incapable of discharging the duties of a soldier, that he direct the remainder to be conducted to the army, under the command of such officers as the Commander in Chief may think proper to detach for that purpose. And to prevent all disputes respecting the proper age of the drafts and recruits, it is farther resolved that no person shall be received as such, who shall be under the age of eighteen, or above that of fifty, except in the case here after mentioned.

That the officers entrusted with the examination of the drafts and recruits do immediately on rejecting any, inform the executive powers of the respective States thereof that the numbers rejected may be replaced so soon as possible. The expences of all men so rejected not to be allowed by the United States on settlement with the States to which they respectively belong. But if there should be among such rejected drafts or recruits, youths of above fifteen years of age, healthy, robust, and likely to make able bodied soldiers when of sufficient age, the Officers may agree to take such of them as will enlist during the war as part of the quota of the State, and they may, and shall be marched to the army, and employed until able to bear arms, as drummers, fifers and officers servants, provided that the number of such youths do not exceed the number of officers who are of the quota of the State, from which the said youths are respectively sent.

Resolved, That the Commander in Chief be empowered and directed to make the most salutary regulations possible, for modifying the practice of taking men from the regiments to act as servants to officers which has heretofore been attended with many bad consequences.

That every officer who by such regulations shall be intitled to a servant, and who shall enlist to serve during the war, a youth not under 15, nor exceeding 18 years of age, and who from appearances is likely to prove an able bodied soldier, such officer shall retain the youth so enlisted as his servant, until in the opinion of the inspector general, or one of the sub inspectors he shall be fit to bear arms, and the youth shall receive the bounty money, cloathing, pay and rations of a soldier; and the officer to whom such servant shall be attached, is not to be allowed a man out of the ranks on any pretence whatsoever while such servant remains with him. In case of the death or resignation of such officer, the servant to be turned over to some other officer in the regiment intitled to a servant, the like allowances of clothing, pay and rations shall be given to any officer intitled as aforesaid to a servant who shall bring into the field with him a servant of his own; the officer in such case not to be allowed a servant out of the line.

That the Commander in Chief be directed annually to transmit to Congress, on or before the first day of October a return of the army, specifying the number of troops then in service from each State, and the recruits which are necessary to complete its quota, after giving credit for the independent corps to such States as shall have furnished them.

That the Commander in Chief, and Officers commanding separate armies be authorized and directed, to take such methods as they shall judge the most proper to have such recruits enlisted as may be willing to engage for the War, allowing two hundred dollars to each soldier, and ten dollars to the Officer who enlists him.¹

Ordered, That the remainder of the report be postponed. The Board of War, to whom was referred the letter, of this day, from Colonel Armand, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of the paymaster of the Board of War and Ordnance, for thirty two thousand dollars, to be applied to the purpose of procuring cloathing for the army.²

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee, to whom were referred the letters of 31 January from the Board of War, and the two letters from Mr. Holker, relative to the supplies necessary for the use of the fleet of his Most Christian Majesty; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the Board of War give the necessary directions for replacing, out of the public stores, as soon as a sufficient quantity can be spared, the flour borrowed of Mr. Holker, agent for the marine of France in the year 1779, for the use of the United States.

Resolved, That the legislature of the State of Maryland be requested to deliver to Mr. Holker, or his agent, on or before the 1st day of May next, out of the quantity of flour called for by the resolution of the 25th of February last, such a quantity as, with what hath been already purchased and now in the possession of Mr. Holker's agent, in Maryland, will compleat the quantity of fifteen thousand barrels for the marine of France.

Resolved, That the legislature of the State of Pennsylvania be requested to deliver to Mr. Holker, or his agent, on or before the first day of May next, as a part of the supplies called for by the said resolutions of the 25 February last, six thousand barrels of flour, six hundred barrels of pork, and two hundred barrels of beef for the use of the marine of France.

Resolved, That the legislature of the State of Connecticut be requested to deliver to Mr. Holker, or his agent, on or before the first day of May next as a part of the supplies called for from that State, one thousand barrels of pork and one thousand five hundred and fifty five barrels of flour for the above purpose.

Resolved, That the above supplies, when delivered, be charged to Mr. Holker, in account with the United States, in specie, at the prices fixed in the said resolutions of the 25 day of February last.

The Board of War, to whom was referred the letter of 22 December, from Major General Lincoln, having reported thereon,

Resolved, That the deputy quarter master general and principal purchasing commissary in the southern army ascertain, in the best manner circumstances will admit, the quantities of forage and provisions supplied by the inhabitants to the forces of his Most Christian Majesty while the armies lay before Savannah last September and October, and pay for the same what they were reasonably worth, keeping exact and separate accounts of the sums so paid, and transmitting the same to the Treasury Board, as soon as may be.

The committee, appointed to prepare a recommendation to the several states to set apart the last Wednesday in April next as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, brought in a draught, which was read and agreed to, as follows:

selves before him, and turning from every evil way, to avert his anger and obtain his favour and blessing: it is therefore hereby recommended to the several states,

That Wednesday, the twenty sixth day of April next, be set apart and observed as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, that we may, with one heart and one voice, implore the sovereign Lord of Heaven and Earth to remember mercy in his judgments; to make us sincerely penitent for our transgressions; to prepare us for deliverance, and to remove the evils with which he hath been pleased to visit us; to banish vice and irreligion from among us, and establish virtue and piety by his divine grace to revive and spread the influence of patriotism, and eradicate that love of pleasure and of gain which renders us forgetful of our country and our God; to bless all public councils throughout the United States, giving them wisdom, firmness and unanimity, and directing them to the best measures for the public good; to bless the magistrates and people of every rank, and animate and unite the hearts of all to promote the interests of their country; to bless the public defence, inspiring all commanders and soldiers with magnanimity and perseverance, and giving vigor and success to the military operations by sea and land; to bless the illustrious Sovereign and the nation in alliance with these states, and all who interest themselves in the support of our rights and liberties; to make that alliance of perpetual and extensive usefulness to those immediately concerned, and mankind in general; to grant fruitful seasons, and to bless our industry, trade and manufactures; to bless all schools and seminaries of learning, and every means of instruction and education; to cause wars to cease, to the ends of the earth and to establish peace among the nations.

And it is further recommended, that servile labour and recreations be forbidden on the said day.¹

Treasury Office March 16, 1780

Sir,

The Baron de Steuben to whom Congress by a Resolution of the 7th inst: advanced five hundred and forty six Louis d'ons in Bills of Exchange, applies to this Board to know the rate of Exchange at which they are to be charged: for as he is under the necessity of selling these Bills immediately, to purchase necessaries for the ensuing campaign, he finds on Enquiry, he can not get for the Bills but half the sum in currency, he could, if he was furnished with the specie: this being the case, the disadvantage resulting to him under these circumstances is too great, unless Congress shall be pleased to fix the Rate of Exchange at the present Course. If that should be declined, he then desires that in lieu of the Bills, to be delivered him in advance, he may have their equivalent in current dollars occasionally, as he may want them; and for the present the sum of 50,000 dollars

The Board are of opinion, this last proposal will be the most equitable under the present fluctuating State of Bills of Exchange and therefore beg leave to report

So it was resolved in the affirmative and the main question was set aside.

\(^1\) This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, IV, folio 145.
Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report, which being debated by paragraphs was agreed to, as follows:

The Committee to whom were referred sundry papers relating to the state of the publick finances, beg leave to report that Congress having been driven into this just and necessary war at a time when no regular civil governments were established of sufficient energy to enforce the collection of taxes, or to provide funds for the redemption of such bills of credit as their necessities obliged them to issue, and before the powers of Europe were sufficiently convinced of the justice of their cause, or the probable event of the controversy, to venture to afford them aid or credit; which bills, emitted under the circumstances above mentioned were in their nature, as the event has shown, liable to depreciate; and are in fact sunk notwithstanding the parent intentions and repeated exertions to support them, so low as to be now current by common consent at less than \( \frac{1}{5} \) part their nominal value, and still remain in a state of uncertainty and fluctuation; whereby great mischiefs and distress ensue to the community, the publick finances are deranged, and the necessary dispositions for the defence of the country greatly impeded and embarrassed; which evils are the more intolerable as America has it now in her power to extricate herself out of them, as her Independence is now well assured, her interests and credit in Europe daily gaining strength, her internal governments established and vigorous and the unconquered spirit of her citizens yet ardent for exertion: and whereas, the means essentially necessary, as it is apprehended, to give the same stability to the paper medium now as in former times, are to reduce the quantity to its former limits, and to place it on funds to be established and granted by the legislatures of the several states for that purpose; Therefore,

These United States having been driven into this just and necessary war, at a time when no regular civil governments were established, of sufficient energy to enforce the collection of taxes, or to provide funds for the redemption of such bills of credit as their necessities obliged them to issue; and before the powers of Europe were sufficiently convinced of the justice of their cause, or of the probable event of the controversy, to afford them aid or credit, in consequence of which, their bills increasing in quantity beyond the sum necessary for the purpose of a circulating medium, and wanting, at the same time, specific funds to rest on for their redemption, they have seen them daily sink in value, notwithstanding every effort that has been made to support the same; insomuch that they are now passed, by common consent, in most parts of these United States, at least 30-40ths below their nominal value, and still remain in a state of depreciation, whereby the community suffers great injustice, the public finances are deranged, and the necessary dispositions for the defence of the country are much impeded and perplexed; and whereas, as effectually to remedy these evils, for which purpose the United States are now become competent, their independence being well assured, their civil governments established and vigorous, and the spirit of their citizens ardent for exertion, it is necessary speedily to reduce the quantity of the paper medium in circulation, and to establish and appropriate funds that shall ensure the punctual redemption of the bills; therefore,

That the resolution of the 23d day of February, so far as respects relinquishing to the states two thirds of the quotas assigned them by the resolution of October, 1779, be repealed.

That the states be called on to continue their said quotas of fifteen million dollars monthly, to the month of April, 1781, inclusive.

Resolved, That the several states continue to bring into the continental treasury, by taxes or otherwise, their full quotas of fifteen million dollars monthly, as assigned them by the resolution of the 7th of October, 1779; a clause in the resolution of the 23d of February last, for relinquishing two thirds of the said quotas, to the contrary notwithstanding; and that the states be further called on to make provision for continuing to bring into the said treasury their like quotas monthly, to the month of April, 1781, inclusive:
That silver and gold be receivable in payment of the said quotas, at the rate of one Spanish milled dollar in lieu of 40 dollars of the bills now in circulation.

That the said bills, as paid in, except for the months of January and February past, which may be necessary for the discharge of past contracts, be not re-issued, but destroyed.

Rejected.

That the specie paid in on said quotas be appropriated solely to sinking the outstanding bills.

That as fast as the said bills shall be brought in to be destroyed, and funds shall be established, as hereafter mentioned, for other bills, other bills be issued, not to exceed, on any account, one-twentieth part of the nominal sum of the bills brought in to be destroyed.

That the bills which shall be issued, be redeemable in specie, within six years after the present, and bear an interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, to be paid also in specie at the redemption of the bills, or, at the election of the holder, annually, at the respective continental loan offices, in sterling bills of exchange, drawn by the United States on their commissioners in Europe, at four shillings and six pence sterling per dollar.

That the said new bills issue on the funds of individual states, for that purpose established, and be signed by persons appointed by them, and that the faith of the United States be also pledged for the payment of the said bills, in case any State on whose funds they shall be emitted, should, by the events of war, be rendered incapable to redeem them; which undertaking of the United States, and that of drawing bills of exchange, for payment of interest as aforesaid, if demanded, shall be endorsed on the bills to be emitted, and signed by a commissioner to be appointed by Congress for that purpose.

That the face of the bills to be emitted read as follows, viz.

The possessor of this bill shall be paid Spanish milled dollars, by the 31 day of December, 1786, with interest, in like money, at the rate of five per cent. per annum, by the State of , according to an act of the legislature of the said State, of the day of , 1780.
March, 1780

And the endorsement shall be as follows, viz.

"The United States of America will pay this bill according to the face of it, if the State of should by any means fail of its redemption; and will also pay the interest annually in bills of exchange on their commissioners in Europe, at four shillings, six pence sterling, per dollar, if desired, agreeable to a resolution of Congress of the 6th of March, 1780." The United States ensure the payment of the within bill, and will draw bills of exchange for the interest annually, if demanded, according to a resolution of Congress of the 18 day of March, 1780.

That the said new bills shall be struck under the direction of the Board of Treasury, in due proportion for each State, according to their said monthly quotas, and lodged in the continental loan offices in the respective states, where the commissioner to be appointed by Congress, in conjunction with such persons as the respective states appoint, shall attend the signing of the said bills; which shall be compleated no faster than in the aforesaid proportion of one to twenty of the other bills brought in to be destroyed, and which shall be lodged for that purpose in the said loan offices.

That as the said new bills are signed and compleated, the states respectively, on whose funds they issue, receive sixtenth of them, and that the remainder be subject to the orders of the United States, and credited to the states on whose funds they are issued, the accounts whereof shall be adjusted agreeably to the resolution of the 6th of October, 1779.

That the said new bills be receivable in payment of the said monthly quotas, at the same rate as aforesaid of specie; the interest thereon to be computed to the respective states, to the day the payment becomes due.

That the respective states be charged with such parts of the interest on their said bills, as shall be paid by the United States, in bills of exchange; and the accounts thereof shall be adjusted agreeably to the resolution aforesaid, of the 6th of October, 1779.

That whenever interest on the bills to be emitted shall be paid prior to their redemption, such bills shall be thereupon exchanged for others of the like tenor, to bear date from the time of such exchange expiration of the year for which such interest is paid.

That the several states be called on to provide funds for their quotas of the said new bills, to be so productive as to sink or redeem one sixth part of them annually, after the 1st day of January next.

That nothing in the foregoing resolutions shall be construed to ascertain the proportions of the expence incurred by the war, which each state on a final adjustment ought to be charged with, or to exclude the claims of any State to have the prices at which different states have furnished supplies for the army hereafter taken into consideration and equitably adjusted.

That the foregoing resolutions, with a letter from the President, be dispatched to the executive of the several states, and that they be requested to call their assemblies, if not already convened, as speedily as possible, to take them into immediate consideration, to establish ample and certain funds for the purposes therein mentioned, and to take every other measure necessary to carry the same into full and vigorous effect, and that they transmit their acts for that purpose to Congress without delay.¹

¹ This report, in the writing of Oliver Ellsworth, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 26, folio 149.

An amendment, in the writing of Robert R. Livingston, endorsed: “Withdrawn” in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 26, folio 159, is as follows:

That the monthly tax to the 1st day of October next be levied agreeable to the resolution of the 6th day of October last.

That from thenceforward annually after the present year taxes be imposed to be levied quarterly equal to one third of the former emissions of the continental bills of credit which may be then in circulation.

So it passed in the affirmative.

A report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

At a Board of War, March 18, 1780

Present Col. Pickering, M' Peters, Col Grayson

M' Morris, an assistant commissary of purchases in the State of New Jersey, has in his possession about 70,000 lbs. of pork salted in bulk, but which it is necessary to pack and salt up in barrels immediately. The delay of a few days at this season, will endanger the loss of the whole. As it lays in Jersey, and is easy to be transported 2 That silver, &c.

3 That one half of the Bills so brought in by taxes be destroyed.
4 That as soon as the bills are brought in and destroyed as aforesaid, or funds are established as herein after mentioned by one or more states, other bills be issued upon the credit of such funds equal to the amount thereof, not to exceed on any account one twentieth part of the bills brought in and destroyed and the money in circulation calculated at forty dollars of the bills now in circulation for one in specie, so that the whole debt shall on no account exceed 10,000,000 of dollars in specie.
to the army, 'tis of the greater importance to preserve it. It was laid in at three dollars a pound, the price of pork now is six dollars. If it perishes, the whole loss will fall on the United States. This pork when barrelled will be worth upwards of 400,000 dollars—and to render it of that value to the United States, 10,000 dollars only are wanting to procure the barrels and pay the packers. Salt is already provided. The case is pressing. The board beg leave to recommend the following resolve,

That Ten thousand dollars be immediately advanced to Mr. Israel Morris, Assistant Commissary of Purchases to the paymaster of the Board of War and Ordnance, to enable the said Board to preserve a quantity of pork, the property of the United States.¹

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favor of Joseph Carleton, paymaster of the Board of War and Ordnance for ten thousand dollars, to be applied under the direction of the said Board for preserving a quantity of pork in New Jersey.²

That it be further recommended, that the said laws be enacted in such manner that no persons may take unjust advantage to defeat the good purposes of this resolution, by availing themselves of the notice thereof, before the passing of the several acts.

AT A BOARD OF WAR, March 20 1780

Present Mr. Peters, Col Grayson

The Board had the honor to transmit Baron Steuben's opinion upon the proposed reduction of the Regiments in the army.

Congress can best judge of the expediency or inexpediency of the measure. If they should be of opinion that no reduction should at present be attempted, there will be a deficiency of subaltern officers; but as few of those as possible should be created, as multiplying them will occasion embarrassments should a reduction be thought of at a future day. Yet some addition to the numbers of these Officers will be necessary. The board therefore beg leave to report,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the governments of the several states, to suspend making new appointments of officers in the regiments of their respective lines, except where the Commander in Chief or commanding officer in the south-

Present Mr. Peters, Col. Grayson

The board agreeable to the resolve of Congress of March the 2d 1779 have continued in office Mr. Ralph Pomeroy, Commissioner of Clothing Acco' for the year 1777: but they find the business done by that Gentleman, has not answered their expectations, not from want of attention to his duty on the part of Mr. Pomeroy, but from the negligence of some officers, and the death, resignation and removal of others few accounts were exhibited for settlement. Altho' the business of this officer is not equal to the expence, the board think the appointment has satisfied the army of the rectitude of the intentions of Congress, and if the officers have not taken advantage of, or could not benefit by the opportunity given them, no fault can be imputed to Congress. On political motives it would be proper to fix a time for the settlement of those accounts and to declare that all persons not exhibiting their claims within the period limited for the purpose shall be precluded from any farther demand. The Board therefore beg leave to report

Resolved, That the office of commissioner of cloathing accounts, established by resolve of Congress of the 2d of March, 1779, be discontinued, after six months from the date hereof; and that all persons having cloathing accounts for the year 1777, and who do not exhibit them to the said commissioner within that period, shall not receive any compensation for any arrearages they may thereafter claim to be due to them.¹

In pursuance of instructions from their constituents, the delegates of Massachusetts Bay moved certain resolutions:

That upon the adjustment of the accounts of the State of Massachusetts Bay, they be allowed the reasonable expences incurred by them in endeavouring by a land and Naval Armament to dislodge the Enemy who had actually invaded the said State and fortified themselves at Penobscot.

That a warrant issue on the Treasurer of the State of Massachusetts Bay in favor of the Said State for Dollars being part of their quota of Continental Taxes, for which sum the said State is to be accountable.

That an Expedition be forthwith adopted for dislodging the Enemy from Penobscot, and that Cont1 pay and rations be allowed to any body of Militia not exceeding 800 men which the State of Massachusetts Bay may judge necessary to be raised by them for the defence of the Eastern part of that State.1

Ordered, That they be referred to a committee of three:

Resolved, That a member be elected for the Board of Admiralty, in the room of Mr. [James] Forbes, who by reason of sickness cannot attend.

War Office, March 23, 1780

Sir,

The Board have been honored with a reference of Genl. Washington's letter on the subject of Provisions. They have long apprehended the calamities which now seem fast approaching—which are of the most alarming nature; and they would be too happy were it in their power to propose any certain measures for remedying or preventing the evils which threaten us. But as the plan of State supplies has not yet taken effect, and the Commissary General of purchases has neither the means of engaging persons of character and abilities to assist him in procuring supplies, nor money to purchase them, they see little hopes of brighter prospects. The letters they receive from all quarters hold up universal distress from the want of money. The Convention Troops have been nearly starving, the purchasing Commissary in Virginia has, as a temporary expedient, sent the provisions from the seaboard to Charlottesville, but has no money to replace them, and therefore declares it impracticable to supply passing troops. How reinforcements for the Southern army (if any should be sent) can subsist under these circumstances the Board are at a loss to determine. The measures they have been pursuing for the attainment of a temporary supply for the grand army will appear by the inclosures. All they can do is merely palliative, and will be of short duration unless immediate measures are taken to strengthen the hands of Col. Blaine by giving him money and assistants to enable him to keep up the supply until the States have made provision. The Board need not inform Congress of the critical situation of our army at the eve of an approaching campaign—and so far from having any thing like magazines, that they are subsisted precariously by the day. They therefore humbly propose that if practicable some method be fallen upon, to put the Commissary's Department in cash, and that he be enabled to procure men of integrity and abilities to assist him, by having it in his power to engage them on Salaries of a fixed nature, either in specie, wheat or sterling. These assistants might be discharged when there was no farther occasion of their services, and while they acted they could assure themselves of a certain support, and be excluded from the destructive plan of commissions. As the subject is of so interesting a nature, the Board have taken the liberty of expressing their sentiments, decisively tho' not knowing the practicability of carrying their ideas into execution, they have not formed any report on the subject—they would beg to add, that the causes which prevent the obtaining provisions preclude the possibility of transporting them, and they expect in a short time, that few or no waggonswill be able to move in the public service, private teams having no temptation to work for the United States—and the continental waggonsw being incapable of any business from the want of Forage.

We have the honor to be &c

several demands were made of him for transportation when acting in the quarter master's department, which he had refused to pay, as the people had not fulfilled their agreement; that he is threatened with actions;" Whereupon,

The Board beg leave to lay before Congress Extract of a Letter from Jeremiah Wadsworth Esq' late Commissary General of Purchases dated at Hartford Feb' 27th 1780, "I mentioned to the Treasury Board when at Philadelphia that I had several demands against me for Transportation when acting in the Quarter Master General's Department which I had refused to pay as the people had not fulfilled their agreements. The Act making Paper Money a Tender is now repealed, and these people threaten me with Actions. I have no doubt they will fail, but I wish for the instructions of the Board and expect their advice. I trust I shall not be left to encounter these scoundrels unsupported by the Public for whose interest I have involved myself in this trouble which I could have avoided by paying them, their receipts would have been my vouchers, and if I should be so unfortunate to have all this trouble without your patronage it will deter others from any risques of this kind in future."

The committee appointed to confer with the commissioners, and to whom was referred the report on the quarter master's department, brought in a report, which was read:

Whereas Congress on the 25th of February last Resolved, That the several States should be called on for certain supplies of Beef, Flour, and other Articles necessary for the ensuing Campaign; and that the same should be collected and deposited, or delivered, at the risque of the respective States, in such places within each State respectively as the Commander in Chief should judge most convenient: and it being necessary to provide for the safe keeping and transportation of the stores which shall be so deposited:

1 Resolved, That suitable store houses or Magazines be provided, in the Manner herein after directed at such places as the Commander in Chief shall appoint for the reception of the Stores to be deposited as aforesaid.

2 That there be one Store keeper to each Magazine, to be appointed by the Board of War, who shall give bond with two sufficient sureties in such sum as shall be judged sufficient by said Board for the faithful discharge of his trust.

3 That there be three Superintendents of Magazines and transportation, to be appointed by Congress: Viz One for the Northern division of these States, including the State of New York; One for the Middle division containing New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland; and one for the Southern Division, comprehending the residue of these States.

4 That each Superintendent, with the approbation of the Board of War appoint a deputy for each State in his division, with the approbation of the Supreme Executive power of the State.

5 That it shall be the duty of the store keepers to receive and safely keep all stores which shall be delivered at their respective Magazines, agreeable to the Act of Congress above mentioned, for the use of the United States, first carefully inspecting the same, and rejecting all such as in their judgment are not of good and sufficient quality.

Provided nevertheless, That such Articles as the Store keeper shall reject as insufficient, shall be taken care of by him until they can be examined by impartial and Judicious Men to be mutually chosen by the Store keeper, and the State Commissioner sending such Stores, to whom the Store keeper shall give the earliest notice of the Matter: and the determination of such arbitrators shall be binding on both parties. He is also to receive and safely keep all public stores brought from any other district to be deposited in the Magazine under his care—and the Store keepers shall give receipts for all Articles delivered to them, therein expressing their sorts, quantities and qualities and the names of the Commissioner, and Conductor or Waggoner sending and delivering the same: they shall also severally keep two distinct books in one of which they shall insert an exact account of every Article by them received, and in the other a like account of all articles issued for the use of the Army or any detachment thereof: the usual course of issues to be by orders of the Quarter Master Gen' and Commissary Gen' or the heads of their respective Departments in any separate Army, drawn on the Superintendents and their deputies; and no issues shall be made by any Store keeper but by order of the Board of War; the Commander in Chief or Commander of any separate Army, the Quarter Master or Commissary General, or the heads of their respective Departments in any separate Army, or the Superintendant of the division, or his Deputy, in which such Store keeper shall serve: Except only to parties and detachments of Continental troops or Militia in Actual service, on the returns of their respective Commanding Officers; and if in such case the Commanding Officer be a Non Commissioned Officer, he shall first produce to the store keeper the orders of his Superior Officer, specifying his route, and the number of Men put under his command, and once in every month the store keepers shall make returns to their respective Superintendents and deputy Superintendents, of all their receipts and issues, (shewing from whom the stores were received and to whom and by whose order issued) and of the stores remaining on hand; and punctually observe the Instructions of their respective Superintendents and deputy Superintendents, relative to the Stores committed to their care.

6. That it shall be the duty of each Superintendent to provide by hire at such places within his division as the Commander in Chief shall appoint, the buildings necessary for the reception and safe keeping of the stores to be there collected and deposited agreeable to the Act aforesaid of the 25th of February last; to visit all the Magazines within his division at least once in every three months, to examine into their condition and see that the stores are managed with proper care and order; to examine the storekeepers books and see that they are properly kept; to correspond with the Board of War, the Quarter Master, and Commissary General, and when the service shall require it, with the heads of those Departments in any separate Army, and to furnish them respectively once a month with a general return of the receipts and issues, and of the stores on hand at each Magazine in his division; to comply with their respective requisitions for stores; to inform them of all neglects, abuses and accidents which shall arise, to the injury or interruption of the business committed to his management; taking in the mean time the most effectual measures in his power to remedy the same. If any State Commissioner fail of furnishing the supplies required of them in due time, to give the earliest notice thereof to the executive of such State, and to the Board of War; to make timely provision for transporting his stores, adopting the cheapest and most certain modes for this end, and preferring the hiring or contracting for the carriage of them by weight; to keep an exact register of all the Wagons and other carriages, Pack horses, vessels and Boats, he shall employ, and of the work done by them; to represent to the Board of War, those cases in which, in his opinion, either necessity or public utility require the erecting of houses for the reception and preservation of the public stores, or the building of boats or Bridges, repairing of roads, or clearing of rivers, to facilitate the transportation of them; and to apply to the executive powers of the States, in which any obstruction to the transportation shall arise for their direction and assistance in removing the same; to make such additional regulations as he shall find to be requisite for the proper and uniform management of the business committed to his direction; to transmit monthly to the Board of War, or as often after the first returns as any alterations shall take place, copies of such additional regulations, and of the contracts or terms of hire, with the names and places of abode of the owners or contractors of, and for all vessels, boats, carriages and Pack horses he shall employ, and the numbers of each furnished by such owners and contractors respectively, and to give such other returns and information relative to the business of his Department as the said Board shall require.

7. That from time to time necessary sums of money shall be furnished to the Superintendents, to be by them distributed among their deputies, to pay for the transportation of all stores from their respective Magazines: and for such other purposes as are herein after directed.

8. That it shall be the duty of the deputy Superintendents to assist their principals in the performance of the duties herein before assigned them, agreeably to the directions before given, and such instructions as they shall from time to time receive from their respective Superintendents; to examine all accounts for the transportation of stores from the Magazines and for the salaries and wages of all persons employed under them within their district; and to pay the sums they shall find to be due thereon; the salaries of the Store keepers and their clerks to be paid at the end of every three months to examine the books of receipts and issues of the store keepers within their district with their vouchers; and settle the same once in every three months.

9. That the deputy Superintendents shall regularly at the end of every three months, settle their accounts of expenditures of the public money: with their respective Superintendents, who at such settlements shall pay to their deputies and their clerks the salaries hereby allowed them.

10. That once in every three months each Superintendent shall exhibit to the Board of Treasury the Accounts of his deputies by him settled as above mentioned, together with an Account of his own expenditures of the public money at which time the Treasury Board shall report the salaries due to him, and his clerk, in order that the same may be paid.

11. That the Superintendents, their deputies and store keepers be allowed to appoint each for himself one clerk, and no more without the concurrence of the Board of War.

12. That no Superintendent, deputy Superintendent or store keeper, shall own or be in any manner interested in any vessel, boat or carriage, Draft horse, or Pack horse employed in the service of the United States, on pain of being dismissed from the service.

13. That the following salaries be allowed to the officers aforesaid to be paid in Spanish Milled dollars, or other money equivalent, in four equal quarterly payments in the manner before mentioned.

To a Superintendent for his services, and travelling expenses ..................

To his Clerk for ditto ................................

To a deputy Superintendent for his services and travelling expenses according to the extent of his district and quantity of business, not exceeding ..................

nor less than ................

To His Clerk for his services and travelling expenses ....

To a Store Keeper ....................................

To his Clerk ...........................................

14. That the owners of teams and Pack horses employed in the transportation of stores from the Magazines shall procure Forage for them, and provisions for their conductors, Wagoners, and drivers at their own expence, and be answerable for the safe conveyance and delivery of the stores received by them, or the conductors, wagoners and drivers whom they employ.

And whereas, the great number of issuing posts, established in these States have by experience been found very burthensome and expensive.
15. Resolved. That from and after the day of next no post without troops, there stationed and in the Continental Service, shall be continued or established in any State at the expense of the United States, or public provisions or forage issued there at (the Magazines before mentioned excepted) but by order of the Board of War, the Commander in Chief or Commander of a separate Army, and such order shall be given only in cases where in their opinion the obtaining provision or forage in any other way would be impracticable or attended with greater public expense and inconvenience, than by such issues.

16. And whereas it may some times happen that there is a necessity to detain hired teams, the owners of which were to find their own forage and provisions, beyond the time for which such teams were engaged, and who if their own forage and provisions are expended must have recourse to the public Magazines: It is Resolved that such teams and their conductors and drivers, so detained and become destitute of forage and provisions, shall be supplied out of the public Magazines upon the written order of the Officer by whose order they shall have been detained, and the Waggon Master General or his deputy, or other person under whose direction such teams shall be employed before he signs their discharge, shall cause to be endorsed thereon, by the forage Master, and Commissary or Store keeper (as the case may be) the number of rations, of Forage and provisions furnished to such teams and their conductors and drivers, that the same may be deducted out of the Wages due to the owners of such hired teams.

17. That excepting in the cases above mentioned, no provisions or forage be drawn by any person not actually serving with the Army or some detachments thereof. And Whereas it is necessary to make provision for occasional supplies to detachments and parties of Continental troops, and militia in Continental actual service when on their march to and from the Army or other place of service, and which cannot conveniently be supplied from the public Magazines.

18. Resolved. That it be recommended to the several States immediately to enact laws, authorizing and requiring justices of the peace, or other proper persons in such cases upon notice given them by the Commanding Officer of any such party or detachment as aforesaid, to cause them to be supplied by billets or otherwise, as the number of men and other circumstances shall require, with necessary Quarters, and with so many rations of provisions and forage, as such Commanding Officer shall certify to be necessary for the party or detachment under his command; and which shall so appear to the justice or other civil Officer to whom the application is made; together with wood and straw. Provided, that before any such issues are made for a party under the command of a Non Commissioned Officer, he shall produce to the Justice or other person of whom such supplies are demanded a written order from his Superior Officer specifying the route he was to take, the number of men put under his command, and the regiment, troop or company to which he belongs, and before the departure of such detachment or party, the Commanding Officer thereof shall give a certificate under his hand to the person furnishing such supplies: specifying the sorts and quantities of the several articles supplied (expressing the quantities in words at length and not in figures) and by whom the same were furnished; and shewing in words at length the rank of such Officer in the Army, and also (if not a general Officer) the name of the regiment, troop or company to which he belongs.

And it is further recommended to the several States to make provision for the speedy payment of all such certificates by the Treasurers of the Counties, or Towns respectively where such supplies shall be furnished. And each State furnishing such supplies of provision and forage shall be credited for the same as parts of their quotas required by the Act of Congress of the 25 February last and at the prices therein fixed; and for wood and straw credit shall be given at prices exceeding by one half the rates at which the same Articles were usually sold, at the places where furnished, in the year 1774.

19. And as in supplying such parties and detachments doubts may arise in regard to the species and quantities of provisions and forage which constitute a ration, 1

Resolved. That henceforward a ration of provisions shall consist of—

That a ration of forage shall consist of for a saddle horse 14 pounds of Hay and 6 quarts of oats; for a draught horse 16 pounds Hay and 12 Quarts of Oats Per day; or in lieu of oats, other short forage equivalent.

Agreed.

20. That double rations of grain in lieu of Hay, and double rations of hay in lieu of grain, be considered as a complete ration.

Agreed.

1 A marginal note says: "Thus far examined."
21. That wood and straw be supplied in the following proportions

vix. To every sixty men, including Officers, one Quarter of a cord of Wood per day. To every six men, including Officers twenty pounds of straw, but no straw to be allowed in summer, except in rainy weather, and for the sick: nor at any season oftener than once in three days.

22. And whereas the mode of obtaining supplies directed in the Act of Congress of the 25th February last, and the means of transporting them herein before prescribed materially alter and lessen the business of the Quarter Master General, and this change of circumstances requiring a different arrangement of his Department.

23. Resolved, That there be one Quarter Master General to be appointed by Congress.

24. That the Quarter Master General, with the consent of the Commander in Chief, appoint one deputy for the Main Army, and one for every separate Army, to be taken from the Line.

25. That the Quarter Master Gen' and each of his deputies be allowed one clerk.

26. That when two or more regiments are detached and the service shall require it, the Quarter Master Gen' and his deputy with a seperate Army, be respectively authorized to appoint one of the Captains in the detachment to perform the duty of Quarter Master therein, so long as the same shall be necessary for the good of the service: and during that time such Captain shall be allowed an additional pay equal to one half of his pay as a Captain.

27. That there be one Forage Master Gen' and one deputy for the Main Army, one deputy for each separate Army, one forage Master for each brigade, one for Head Quarters and the staff (including of the staff the Quarter Master Gen' and his deputy, the Inspector Gen', the Adjutant Gen', the Engineers, the chief Physician and Surgeon, the Judge Advocate Gen', the Commissary Gen' of prisoners, the deputy Pay Master Gen', the Auditors of Accounts, The field Post Master and the express riders: the latter in future to be under the direction of the Post Master attending the Army) one for the Commissary Generals Department, and one for the Department of the Field Commissary of Military stores.

28. That all Officers in the forage Department for the Main Army be appointed by the Quarter Master Gen', and those for a separate Army by his deputy in such separate Army, having the approbation of the March, 1780

Commander in Chief, and Commander of such separate Army respectively.

29. That there be one Waggon Master Gen' and two one deputy for the Main Army; one deputy for each separate Army; one conductor for Head Quarters; one to the staff; one for each brigade of the army and one for each brigade of twelve teams in the Staff Departments.

30. That the Waggon Master Gen' his deputies and conductors be appointed in the same manner as the Officers in the Forage Department.

31. That from and after the day of next all other Officers in the Quarter Master Gen’ Department be discontinued: the Officers of the Corps of regimented Artificers excepted.

32. That the Quarter Master Gen' shall have full power with the consent of the Commander in Chief, to dismiss any Officer in his appointment, who shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties of his Office and to appoint, in the manner before mentioned another in his stead; and the deputy Q' Master Gen' with any separate Army shall have the like power in respect to all Officers in his appointment.

33. of the separate Army in which he serves, and one to the Q't Master

37. That the Quarter Master Gen't from time to time furnish the Board of War with estimates of all supplies necessary for his depart-

38. That the Quarter Master Gen't with the approbation of the Com-of his Department, not inconsistent with these regulations, as he shall judge to be most conducive to the public weal, describing in particular the manner in which all Officers subject to his orders shall perform their respective duties, keep their accounts, and make their returns; that the whole may be done with uniform regularity.

39. That neither the Quarter Master Gen't nor any of his deputies shall build at the public expense any house, stable or barrack, or

Board of War, the Commander in Chief or Commander of a separate Army.

interested in any boat, Shallop, waggon or other carriage, horse or team, employed, on hire or contract in the service of the United States, on pain of forfeiting a sum equal to that which shall have become due for

50. That the forage hereby allowed shall be issued by the Forage Masters with regularity and exactness by rations, each ration to consist of the quantities herein before established; and no more than one ration shall be issued for one horse for 24 hours.

51. That forage for the waggon horses be issued on the returns of the respective conductors, countersigned by the Wagon Master Gen' or his deputy: and for other horses on the orders of the Officers entitled to receive forage by virtue of these regulations, and if any Officer in the Forage Department shall issue Forage in any other Manner, or in larger proportions than is prescribed in the foregoing regulations, he shall be charged with and pay the full value of such extra forage, and for a second Offence be dismissed from the service.

52. And whereas the movements of the Army, and the various events of War, the Marching of new Levies, or of corps or detachments, to or from the Army or some post, may occasion sudden demands for horses, waggons and teams, which cannot be seasonably furnished in the manner before directed,

Resolved, That in such cases the Quarter Master Gen', and his deputy with each separate Army, and the Officers commanding such new levies, Corps and detachments, be authorized to procure, by hire or contract so many draft horses, wagons and Teams as shall be indispensably necessary for the service, and which cannot be seasonably provided in the manner before directed. And whereas it may happen in some cases that the horses, wagons and teams necessary for the service as above mentioned cannot be procured by hire or contract.

53. Resolved, That it be recommended to the several States to pass laws authorizing and directing any Justice of the Peace upon the requisition of the Board of War, the Commander in Chief, or Commander of a separate Army, or of any officer commanding a party, Corps or detachment as aforesaid, such requisition to be in writing, and shewn unto him, to issue his warrant to the constables of the Town or district, or other proper Officers, requiring them to procure by impressing or otherwise, such draft horses, carriages, and teams, with able men to drive the same, as shall by the requisition aforesaid be demanded; or as in the case of the Commanding Officer of a party, Corps or detachment shall appear to the Justice to be necessary. And whenever horses, carriages and teams shall be hired or impressed as before mentioned, the Waggon M' General or his deputy or other Officer under whose direction they are employed, and in the case of a party, corps or detachment as aforesaid the commanding Officer thereof, shall before they are discharged, give to their owners or drivers, certificates specifying the number of days they were employed, the weights of their loads (as nearly as they can be ascertained) and the length of way they have carried the same, with such other particulars as shall be necessary to ascertain the value of their services: which certificates being presented to the deputy Superintendent of the State in which such services have been performed, he shall immediately pay them off at the same rates as for horses and carriages employed by him in the transportation of stores.

54. And in order to prevent the waste of Forage during the Marches, and in the Camps and Quarters of the Army, and to effect a regular distribution of the same.

Resolved, That it be recommended to each of the States to enact laws directing and requiring that whenever a Continental Army shall be in such State, one of the Commissioners thereof for providing supplies for the Army do constantly attend it and take possession of all forage which shall be found within the limits of the Camp or Quarters of the Army and in its vicinity (under such restrictions as the States respectively shall judge proper) and deliver the same over to the Forage Master General or his Deputy: The Forage so delivered to be credited to the State furnishing the same at the prices fixed in the resolve of the 25 February last, as part of its quota of supplies thereby required, and during the season when green forage may be obtained that the said Commissioner do, in like manner take, and put the Forage Master Gen¹ or his deputy in possession of all the fields and pastures necessary for the Army within the Camp and its environs: And the Forage Master Gen¹ or his deputy shall regularly appropriate the same to the use of the Army. The value of such green forage and pastures to be ascertained by the said Commissioner and the Forage Mr General or his deputy: The prices to be estimated in Spanish Milled dollars, at one half more than the green forage and pastures so estimated were worth in the year 1774, the amount thereof to be credited to the State thus furnishing the same, as part of its quota of the supplies required as aforesaid. And in case of disagreement between the Commissioner and forage Master in regard to the value of such green forage and pastures, they shall mutually appoint disinterested and judicious arbitrators to appraise the same, whose decision shall be final. And for all forage, green and dry and pastures furnished as above mentioned, the Forage Master Gen¹ or his deputy receiving the same, shall give certificates, specifying the sorts and quantities and the prices thereof, in words at length and not in figures: which certificates shall be deemed sufficient vouchers for charging the same to the United States. And whenever forage and pastures shall be furnished in the manner above described, none shall be taken or fed in any other way unless in cases of necessity by the special orders of the Commander in Chief, or Commander of a separate Army.

55 And it is further Resolved—

That until such Commissioners as before mentioned, shall be appointed, and afterwards in their absence it shall be the duty of the Forage Master Gen¹ and his deputy to take possession of and regularly appropriate to the use of the army all forage and pastures necessary for its consumption found as aforesaid within the limits of the Camp or Quarters of the Army and in its vicinity, cause the same to be appraised and give certificates thereof in the manner before directed.
56. And it is further recommended to the several States to make provision for the speedy payment of all such certificates to the holders of them; which payments being made, such certificates with the receipts thereon of the parties to whom they were given shall be deemed sufficient vouchers for charging the United States with the amount thereof as part of the supplies aforesaid required of the State so furnishing the same.

57. And in order to prevent any waste and unequal distribution of Forage; it shall be the duty of the Forage Master General and his deputy to take possession of the Forage, they shall find, as well at the Quarters of General and other Officers of the Army as elsewhere, and regularly appropriate the same to the General use of the Army.

58. And whereas the supplies called for as aforesaid by the resolve of the 25th of February last may be inadequate to the demands of the ensuing Campaign; and as a larger proportion of some Articles than is therein assessed on the States wherein the Army may lay, and those adjoining may be essentially necessary for its use, and yet from the nature of such supplies or other circumstances it may be impracticable to draw them from more distant States.

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the several States to authorize and require their respective Commissioners for procuring the supplies aforesaid to furnish such additional quantities, beyond their quotas, set by the resolve aforesaid as Congress or the Commander in Chief, or Commander of a separate Army shall call for, and can be procured in such State or States on which demand shall be made—and for all such additional supplies the State furnishing the same, shall be paid the value in specie, or other current money equivalent, at the rates fixed in said resolve of the 25th of February last, with interest at six per centum per annum, from the time such additional supplies shall be delivered at the army or deposited as in that Resolve is directed.

59. And Whereas the change in the system of the Quarter Master General's Department to be hereby effected renders it necessary to prescribe some mode of procuring Camp equipage and other Articles usually provided by the Quarter Master General.

Resolved, That all Camp equipage, ammunition waggons, intrenching and other Tools and Materials heretofore provided by the Quarter Master General shall henceforward be provided by the Commissary General of Military Stores under the direction of the Board of War, and such of them as are carried into the field, shall be committed to the care of the field Commissary of Military stores, who shall issue the same, and keep his accounts and make returns of them in like manner as of the Military stores, excepting however all Timber, boards and other Articles which are to be found in the vicinity of the Army, and can more easily and properly be provided in the field than by the Commissary Gen\(^1\) of Military stores. And such timber and other articles shall accordingly be procured by a Contractor to be appointed for that purpose by the Quarter Master General, and Commanding Officer of the Artillery, out of the Officers of the Artillery Artificers or Quarter Master's Artificers, who shall supply both departments agreeably to the orders of the Quarter Master General and Commanding Officer of the Artillery.
March, 1780

The monies necessary to enable the contractor to procure such supplies, to be drawn from the Military Chest on the applications of the Quarter Master General and Commanding Officer of Artillery respectively: And the Accounts of the Contractor examined and settled by the Auditors of Accounts, once in every three months.

The foregoing regulations as part of the proposed plan for arranging the Staff Departments, are respectfully submitted by

And one in favour of John L. Clarkson, Junior, clerk to the Board of Treasury, for five thousand dollars, on account of his salary; and for which he is to be accountable.

The [Board] beg leave further to report

That they have taken into consideration the letter referred to them from John Lewis Gervais and George Abbot Hall of South Carolina dated the 21 of February who were appointed by a Committee of Congress Agents for the purchase of Rice in South Carolina for the supply of the army and the Count D'Estaing's Fleet, are of opinion that as no vouchers are produced the account referred to in the said letter cannot be liquidated in the ordinary mode, and therefore the Board cannot report that payment be made of the Bills mentioned as a balance of account or partial payment.
March, 1780

That they are of opinion the charge of five per cent Commissions in the said account is too high for the service, but as injury or inconvenience might arise from protesting the Bills, the Board beg leave to report

Ordered, That the bills drawn on the President of Congress by John Lewis Gervais and George Abbot Hall, of South Carolina, agents appointed by a committee of Congress for the purchase of rice in that State, viz.

One in favour of Don Miguel Lorenzo y Inard, for one hundred and twelve thousand dollars.

One in favour of Don Lewis Landa for thirty seven thousand one hundred and ninety dollars.

One in favour of the Honorable John Mathews, for sixty one thousand six hundred dollars, and another in favour of the same, for forty eight thousand dollars, the whole amounting to two hundred and fifty eight thousand seven hundred and ninety dollars, be accepted to be paid by a warrant on the loan office for the State of Pennsylvania, and charged to the account of the said agents.

Mr. Charles Lee was nominated by Mr. [Thomas] Burke for the office of secretary to the Board of Treasury; Mr. John Nicholson was nominated for the said office by Mr. [Nathaniel] Peabody.

According to order, Congress was resolved into a Committee of the Whole; and after some time, the President resumed the chair and Mr. [George] Plater reported, that the committee have had under consideration the report referred to them and have made some progress, but not having come to a conclusion, desire leave to sit again.

Resolved, That to morrow Congress be resolved into a Committee of the Whole, to consider farther the report referred to them.

1 This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, IV, folio 167.
A letter, of 27, from General Washington was read; Whereupon,¹

Resolved, That Brigadier General du Portail be directed to repair, with all possible despatch, to the southern army, and put himself under General Lincoln, or the commanding officer in the southern department.

Ordered, That so much of the letter as relates to supplying Brigadier General Duportail with money be referred to the Board of Treasury.

The Board of Admiralty beg leave to lay the enclosed papers before Congress, and to receive their instructions thereon.

By Mr. Langdon's letter and estimate it will appear that to compleat the 74 gun ship building under his agency he requires an immediate supply of money. That his funds are totally exhausted and by letters of a late date from the Commissioners of the Navy Board in the Eastern Department this Board are also informed that they "will soon be drained of the last shilling."

The Board would also inform Congress that the Bourbon building in Connecticut is almost ready for launching, and her sails, and a principal part of her rigging and other materials provided; and that unless they can have a supply of money she must remain on the stocks unfinished to the great injury of the Public.

In this situation the Board can conceive no other mode of supply than by warrant issuing on the Continental Treasurer or upon the State Treasurers of Massachusetts Bay and New Hampshire payable out of the money arising from taxes; or that part of the sugars and rum in the hands of the Continental Agent in Boston should be sold and the monies arising from the sale be applied for fitting out the Bourbon and to prepare the 74 Gun Ship for launching.

Beside the injury the 74 Gun Ship will receive by remaining on the stocks from the weather, she is, from her situation exposed to be destroyed by the Enemy unless a guard is constantly kept up at considerable expense for her protection. Whereas if she can be so far compleated as to be launched, she may then if we should not be in a capacity to fit her for sea be moved up the River to a place of safety.

March, 1780

As the Board conceive the last will be the most eligible mode of supply, they therefore beg leave to report, That the Board of Admiralty be authorized to cause such part of the sugars and Rum in the hands of the Continental Agent at Boston to be disposed of as shall be necessary to compleat the 74 Gun Ship now building at Portsmouth for launching, and also for fitting out the Bourbon.

A letter, of 11, from Doctor I. Forster to the Medical Committee was laid before Congress and read.

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury.

That the sum of dollars be sent to the Commissary of purchases at the post of Charlottesville, for the purpose of procuring supplies for the immediate use of the garrison.1

Ordered, That the remainder of the report be referred to the Board of Treasury.

According to order, Congress was resolved into a Committee of the Whole; and after some time, the President resumed the chair and Mr. [George] Plater reported, that the committee have had under their farther consideration the report referred to them and have made some progress therein, but not having come to a conclusion, desire leave to sit again.

A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

The Board beg leave to report specially on the petition of Hannah Thomas, relict and Executrix of the late Major General Thomas (to them referred) as follows:

That it appears by an account stated between the United States and the said General by the Commissioners of accounts at Albany for which vouchers have been produced that they have given him credit for one hundred and fifty three pounds thirteen shillings and two pence New York money; for various Disbursements in Canada, and charge several sums paid him in Canada in like money, by Pay Master Winslow and General Wooster, amounting to six hundred thirty three pounds, two shillings and eight pence; and supposing this to be a specie account the balance in favor of the States is £1111.1.2. But it is alleged on the part of the Executrix (and if it had been allowed would have reduced this balance) that by a memorandum found in the Generals pocket, eight pieces of dowlas sheeting had been purchased by him, for the use of the Hospitals, to which no price was affixed. The Commissioners have not admitted this on a supposition a certificate had been given for them to the person of whom they were purchased, and may hereafter appear that the residue of the account is for pay to the amount of D1215.5.4 from which deducting the above £1111.1.2 leaves a balance of D1094.4.2 of the said currency due to the Executrix, it is therefore proposed

Ordered, That a warrant issue on Nathaniel Appleton, commissioner of the continental loan office, for the State of Massachusetts Bay, in favour of Hannah Thomas, executrix of the late Major General Thomas, for two thousand seven hundred thirty five one thousand and ninety four dollars and forty seven ninetyieth of a dollar, in specie, or an equivalent in continental bills, to be computed at forty for one, in discharge of an account of sundry disbursements made by him in Canada and of his pay.1

The Committee appointed on the motion of Mr Schuyler, report the following draft of a letter to be sent to the executive powers of the several states.

Congress are obliged to call on the executive powers of several states, to use every possible exertion to expedite the public supplies, the present deficiency is very great, and, if continued must be fatal. There is no money in the treasury, and scarce any provisions in the public magazines. The states have been are greatly deficient in the quotas of money, they were have been called on to furnish for. More than fifty millions of dollars, of the quotas that have become due to this time, remain unpaid. This failure has Every department is exceedingly embarrassed for want of money every department. These particularly of the commissary and quartermaster for want of money or ability to extend their credit any farther than they have already done, are come to a stand, both with regard to purchases and transportation. In consequence of which the army begin again to be in want, and without immediate and decisive exertions for their relief they must disband or feed provide for themselves.

The making provision to feed the army, tho’ an object of the most serious and immediate importance is not all that is essential to be done at this time. The arrears of the quotas that have become due must be brought in that the debts with which they are charged may be paid off, and the public credit saved from total ruin. The treas uny must also be supplied for future contingencies or it will be impossible to proceed.

The exertions here called for are indeed great, but they are indis pensible. There is no alternative but riving up the public defence o defence of that State; and that they be entitled to receive continental pay and rations, and be employed under the direction of the Commander in Chief of the continental army for that purpose.\footnote{This report, in the writing of John Mathews, is in the \textit{Papers of the Continental Congress}, No. 20, I, folio 357.}

The committee, to whom was referred the letter from Jacob Cuyler, with the copy of a letter from the president of the State of New Hampshire, delivered in a report.

The Committee to whom were referred the letter from Jacob Cuyler Esq: Deputy Commissary Genl of purchases at Albany to Philip Schuyler Esq, a Member of Congress and the Copy of a letter inclosed therein from Meshech Weare Esq. President of the State of New Hampshire to Mr Cuyler, Reports that it appears from the first abovementioned letter, that a quantity of wheat and flour has by virtue of a Law of the State of New York been seized in that State for the use of the Army, that the said wheat and flour as Mr. Cuyler allidges remain undelivered to the Commissary of purchases for want of money to pay for the same, that from the second abovementioned letter it appears that the Commissary having been furnished by order of Congress with two drafts for 300,000 dollars each on the Treasury of the State of New Hampshire caused the same to be presented for acceptance and payment, that the Treasurer of the Said State laid the 5th drafts before their General Assembly, representing to them, at the same time that the Treasury was destitute of money, that the sums which Congress had required to be raised by the State up to the 1st day of January last had been assessed and the greatest part of the same paid into the Treasury of that State, that the same have been applied, or are destined to be applied to the separate use of that State, and that thereby the acceptance and payment of the said drafts have been prevented. Upon which state of facts the Committee begs leave to recommend the following resolutions, to wit.

Resolved, that any application of monies raised for Continental uses in either of these United States in consequence of a Legislative Act grounded on any resolution or Resolutions of Congress, to any other use or uses than such as are or shall be directed by Congress is greatly injurious to and necessarily tends to obstruct the public operations of these United States.

Resolved that the Several States be requested not to apply any such moneys as aforesaid unless on express resolution of Congress or drafts by their order.

Resolved, that it be most earnestly recommended to the State of New Hampshire to make provision without delay for replacing such of the said moneys as were raised in that State for Continental uses and may have been applied to other purposes by authority of that State and that for the future they abstain from such applications.1

A letter, of 7, from Samuel J. Atlee was read:²
Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury.
A memorial from John Patton was read.³
A report from the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon,

Treasury Office April 5th 1780.

The Board of Treasury Report—
That for more than a year past, large quantities of provisions have from time to time been furnished by order of Congress or their Committees to John Holker Esq’ Agent for the Marine of France, for the use of the Fleets of his Most Christian Majesty through the Commissaries of Purchases in the service of the United States—that Mr Holker has repeatedly applied to the Treasury for a settlement of the accounts arising in this behalf and declared himself ready to pay the balance to the order of the Board, that the Board hath as repeatedly given explicit and peremptory orders to the Commissary General of Purchases and his Agents in this City to furnish the vouchers for such settlement, but have the mortification to see their orders neglected and the public interest sacrificed, for by the deprecation of the currency more than half the Balance due is lost to the community, which as the whole amounts at the lowest computation to half a million of dollars is an injury too shameful and intolerable to pass unnoticed;—It is therefore submitted to be resolved—

That all loss by depreciation or otherwise which hath arisen, or may arise to the public by the neglect and delay of the Commissaries of Purchases to furnish the vouchers of account of John Holker Esq' Agent to the Marine of France for provisions furnished to the use of the said Marine, on behalf of the United States before the first of January 1780, be charged to the late Commissary General of Purchases.

The Board further Report—

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Charles Morse, one of the clerks in the Secretary's office, for five thousand five hundred dollars, on account of his salary; and for which he is to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Patrick Farral, clerk in the auditor general's office for five thousand dollars, on account of his salary; and for which he is to be accountable.

The Board represent that by letters from the Board of War and Ordnance, of the 29 and 30 of last month, it appears four special contracts were some time since made under their direction by Colonel Benjamin Flower, commissary general of military stores, with Udree & Co. John Patton, Mark Bird, and Robert Coleman, iron masters, for sundry quantities of military stores; that the said contracts have been completed, and the stores proved and accepted; that the commissary general of military stores has examined and certified their accounts, and that a balance is due to each of them; that the Board knowing no other way of satisfying the said claims, report,

That the following warrants issue on Thomas Smith, commissioner of the continental loan office for the State of Pennsylvania, payable in loan office certificates, and to be charged to the commissary general of military stores, to wit;

heads of the sugar in his hands to this place, agreeably to directions he may receive from the Board of Admiralty.²

On motion of Mr. [Philip] Schuyler, seconded by Mr.
[John] Mathews,

Resolved, That when Congress shall be furnished with proper documents to liquidate the depreciation of the continental bills of credit, they will, as soon thereafter as the state of the public finances will admit, make good to the line of the army, and the independent corps thereof, the deficiency of their original pay, occasioned by such depreciation; and that the money and articles heretofore paid or furnished, or hereafter to be paid or furnished by Congress or the states, or any of them, as for pay, subsistance, or to compensate for deficienies, shall be deemed as advanced on account, until such liquidation as aforesaid shall be adjusted; it being the determination of Congress, that all the troops serving in the continental army shall be placed on an equal footing; provided that no persons shall have any benefit of this resolution, except such as were engaged during the war, or for three years, and are now in service, or shall hereafter engage during the war.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to report a proper compensation to the staff of the army in consequence of the depreciation of the currency:

The members chosen, Mr. [Samuel] Holten, Mr. [Nathaniel] Peabody and Mr. [Thomas] Burke.

A report of the Board of Treasury was read; Whereupon, Ordered, That the following warrants amounting to three millions seven hundred and four thousand dollars, issue in favour of Ephraim Blaine, commissary general of purchases, for the use of his department; and for which he is to be accountable, viz.

One on Henry Gardner, treasurer of the State of Massachusetts bay, for one million eight hundred thousand dollars.

One on Joseph Clarke, treasurer of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, for two hundred and four thousand dollars; and Another on John Lawrence, treasurer of the State of Connecticut, for one million seven hundred thousand dollars, being part of the monies raised in the said states, respectively, for the use of the United States.¹

The committee, to whom was re-committed the draught of a letter to the states, having delivered in another draught, the same was read.

The present war, which was undertaken for purposes, not only Justifiable, but most eminently virtuous, and for objects the most interesting that could be offered to men, has been carried on by means as extraordinary as the success has been miraculous, success which demonstrates the peculiar Interposition of that divine Providence who confounds the measures of Tyrants, and, by supporting the hope and confidence of the virtuous, enables them to surmount all difficulties.

¹This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, IV, folio 189.
Men felt a confidence in that Patriotism which, nobly, resolved to venture against every danger, and to suffer every species of distress in attempting to rescue ourselves and our posterity from subjection to arbitrary dominion. That confidence obtained credit, while these States were struggling, under every seeming disadvantage, even for political existence. That credit enabled them to avail themselves of the resources of their own, and of other Countries for carrying on a weighty and extensive war—during four years, and to bring their Independence to such a state of firmness and stability, that it has no longer any thing to fear except from their own remissness in the prosecution of measures necessary, not indeed for its Establishment, but preservation.

They are now, and have been for some years in condition to act as regular, sovereign communities, and mankind expect from them Exertions becoming a situation so exalted. The means of procuring money, which had hitherto been used with success, became so subject to fluctuation, and had ran into such abuses, and Inconveniences that your representatives in Congress dared not any longer to trust to them; and all the public movements became so much embarrassed, that a total change became indispensably necessary; calling on the several States for proportional supplies of men, money and Provisions was the only choice, and their powerful cooperation is absolutely necessary for giving to the public measures vigor and success.

From the great deficiencies in the Taxes required, your representatives in Congress are apprehensive that their constituents are not duly sensible of the difficulties under which all our affairs are laboring for want of money, nor of the great danger to which their most important concerns will be exposed if the supplies be not duly brought in. We are now constrained by our anxiety for your welfare, and by the adoption of new means, to press you in the most urgent Manner to give the most serious attention to our representations. The men, the money and specific supplies for which you are called on, are all most Essentially requisite, and we wish you to be very strongly impressed with a sense of the necessity of Complying with our requisitions. To this purpose we represent to you that your Enemies are making the most strenuous Exertions for a vigorous campaign, flattering themselves with the hope of obtaining over you advantages highly Important to them and injurious to you; this is with them a and nothing to dread, while the whole Body of Citizens are expert and Intrepid from Native Courage, and familiarity with military service and danger,—we press, we beseech you to improve this opportunity of finishing the war by adopting the measures recommended for giving decisive vigor to your operations against an Enemy who is ready to sink under the superior Force of your ally, and who seems to be as much the object of divine Wrath, as you have been of divine favor and Protection, under which we sincerely pray that you and your posterity may always remain.¹

The consideration of the draught of instructions to the committee to be appointed to go to camp was resumed, and the same being amended to read, as follows:

_Gentlemen,_ You are to confer with the Commander in Chief on the subjects contained in the resolution for your appointment, and such others as are committed to your charge by the following instructions:

1. You are to consult him about the propriety of reducing the number of regiments: You may, with his advice, reduce, incorporate or unite to state lines the several additional corps.

2. You, together with the Commander in Chief, are to limit the number of horses to be kept by the officers of the line and regimental staff, and to make such regulations, with respect to the soldiers employed as servants, as will, as far as is consistent with the convenience of the officers they serve, enable the United States to avail themselves of their services as soldiers.

3. Together with the Commander in Chief, you are to suggest such measures and to form such plans, for the general advantage of the officers and soldiers, with respect to cloathing and necessary supplies, as will tend to remove all just ground of complaint, which Congress sincerely lament that there should be any room for, and to adapt them to the abilities and circumstances of these United States, and immediately to lay them before Congress.

4. You are to consult with the Commander in Chief and the commissary and quarter master general about the defects of the present system, the abuses to which it is liable, and the best methods of reforming the same: In doing this, you will pay a particular attention to the report referred to

You are to communicate the subjects contained in the resolution for your inspection, and such others as are committed to you, to the Commander in Chief, together with the instructions hereunto annexed, and to consult him about the propriety of reducing the pre-existing regiments: You may, with his advice, reduce or unite to state lines the several additional regiments proposed, or so arrange the officers and men as may be best calculated to render the army efficient and economical.

5. You are to enquire minutely into the management of the hospitals and medical departments, and after consulting the Commander in Chief and director general, you are empowered to discharge unnecessary officers, to retrench expences, to abolish purveyorships, unless where they shall appear absolutely necessary; to contrive modes for checking their accounts, and to limit the number of horses which the officers of that department shall be permitted to keep; providing that they be as few as possible, bearing in mind that the resources of the country are much drained, and that it is more expedient that individuals should feel temporary inconveniences, than to involve our affairs in general ruin.

6. You are to enquire into the management of the board of ordnance and military stores, and after consulting with the Commander in Chief, and the heads of the departments, to lay down such rules for the management thereof as to you shall seem necessary.

7. After the establishment of general regulations, you

You are at liberty to call to your assistance any officer in the service of the United States, whose expences shall be borne by the states.

You are to abolish unnecessary posts, to erect others, to discharge useless officers, to stop rations improperly issued, and are hereby further authorized to exercise every power which may be requisite to effect a reformation of abuses and the general arrangement of those departments which are in any wise connected with the matters committed to your charge.

You are, from time to time, to inform Congress of the measures you have taken in consequence of these powers and instructions, and to transmit them lists of the names and occupations of the persons you shall discharge, and of those new officers, if any, which you shall find necessary to appoint.¹

that whenever the accounts in the Quarter Master Gen’s department with their vouchers are brought into the Treasury office, the Board will determine on the most eligible method for adjusting the same.”

The Board are still of opinion that it would be inexpedient to adopt the proposition made by General Greene in his letter aforesaid, and dangerous to give such power, as admitting accounts and making the same vouchers upon a final settlement, while so much public money appears to be unaccounted for in the various departments,—and that the same is repugnant to the acts and ordinances of Congress Relative to the settlement of Expenditures of public money—under which ordinances the public officers must be presumed to have undertaken the execution of their respective duties

Ordered, That so much thereof as relates to Major General Greene’s letter, of April 5th, together with the said letter be referred to a committee of three:

The members chosen, Mr. [Philip] Schuyler, Mr. [Oliver] Ellsworth and Mr. [William] Ellery.

Ordered, That a warrant issue on his Excellency George Clinton, Esquire, governor of the State of New York, for one hundred dollars in specie, part of a sum advanced to him pursuant to a resolution of Congress, of the 15th May, 1778, in favour of the Honorable Philip Schuyler, Esquire, to discharge an account of a like sum paid by him for the public service.¹

That on the application of the Board of War and Ordnance, a warrant issue on Nicholas Gilman, commissioner of the continental loan office for the State of New Hampshire, for eighty thousand dollars, in favour of Joseph Carleton, paymaster to the said Board, for the use of the cloathing department; and for which the said paymaster is to be accountable.

That on the application of the Board of War and Ordnance, a warrant issue on the managers of the United States lottery, in favour of Joseph Carleton, paymaster to the said Board,

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Mr. J[ohn] Collins, one of the delegates for the State of Rhode Island, on his application for six thousand dollars; for which the said State is to be accountable.¹

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Mr. A[llen] Jones, one of the delegates for the State of North Carolina, on his application for ten thousand dollars; for which the said State is to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of the inspectors of the continental press on their application, for one thousand dollars to discharge the contingent expences of their office; and for which they are to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of J. M. Jackson, one of the clerks in the Secretary's office, for five thousand dollars, on account of his salary; and for which he is to be accountable.

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Aaron D. Woodruff, clerk in the Secretary's office, for five thousand dollars, on account of his salary; and for which he is to be accountable.²

Ordered, That so much of the report of the Board, as relates to an allowance to the deputy paymasters general be referred to the committee appointed to report a proper compensation to the staff of the army in consequence of the depreciation of the currency.

A motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Allen] Jones,

\textbf{SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1780}

The Board of Treasury, to whom was referred a letter, of the 7th, from Colonel Samuel J. Atlee, report,

That while Colonel Atlee was a prisoner with the enemy, he had not an opportunity of receiving his pay and other allowances in the same manner with officers who were not in captivity, and that he was under the unavoidable necessity of supporting himself with specie.

That the monies advanced to him were no way adequate to his maintenance, therefore, that it is reasonable his pay and rations during his captivity should be rated in specie and placed to his credit; and that he should be charged with the advances above mentioned. According to which opinion, the Board farther report,

That a bal lance of eighteen hundred and sixty dollars and 4/90ths of a dollar in specie is due from the United States to Colonel Samuel J. Atlee; and that he be allowed interest for the same at the rate of six per cent per annum till paid.

That it appears by a report from the chambers of accounts that Colonel Samuel J. Atlee did advance one hundred and sixty dollars in specie, for the relief of his fellow prisoners in New York, which sum is still due and ought to be repaid in specie, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum; Wherefore they report,

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favor of Colonel Samuel J. Atlee, for two thousand and twenty dollars and 4/90ths of a dollar, in specie, being the amount of monies due to him from the United States. ¹

That they do not find any vote or proceeding of Congress, nor are they informed of any general or received custom, on which the charge of moneys for the education of the accountant's son can be admitted; and though the same is inconsiderable, they are of opinion it ought to be rejected, that a precedent be not established. A report of the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, April 17, 1780.

Present Col. Pickering, Mr. Peters, Col. Grayson.

Extract of a letter from Col. Broadhead, to the Board of War, dated March 18, 1780.

"I am sorry to inform you that the savages have already commenced hostilities. Last Sunday they killed five men at a sugar camp on Raccoon Creek in Youghagania County, and took three girls and three lads prisoners. It is generally conjectured that this mischief was done by Delaware Indians. If the Delaware Indians should declare against us, the frontiers will be greatly distressed as many other nations who have hitherto been neuter, will join them, and my force is by no means sufficient to protect it. I apprehend that the commissioning some of the Delaware Warriors will be attended with good consequences, and I wish Congress may approve of the measure."

The board having considered the above extract beg leave to report—and that it be recommended they take measures to enable the said Colo. Broadhead, and his successor or successors in the command of said Fortress to remove any buildings or the Inhabitants occupying the same which may either obstruct the defences of the Fort or cover the approaches of the Enemy.

Resolved, that Congress will Indemnify said Colo. Broadhead for any damages he may sustain for having removed Edward Ward and Thomas Smallman from the house mentioned in his letter of the 27th February 1780, provided it shall appear to a Court of Inquiry, to be instituted for the purpose, that it was necessary to occupy the said house by part of the Garrison for the defence of the fort.

Resolved, That the present or any future Commanding Officer of Fort Pitt be directed, on the approach of an enemy in such force as to threaten an attack on said Fort, to remove, occupy or destroy every building which may obstruct the defence of the said Fort, and that Congress will Indemnify him for the same.

Resolved, That Colonel Broadhead shall be supported by Congress in any acts or orders which the nature of the service, and the discharge of his duty as commanding officer at Fort Pitt, hath made, or shall make necessary.²

cers who have the misfortune to be captured by the enemy, that the sum of four thousand one hundred and ninety four pounds, New York money, in specie, equal to 10,485 dollars, be placed in the hands of the commissary general of prisoners, out of which he be directed to pay to each of the officers confined in Philadelphia, while the enemy had possession of the city, and now in captivity, the sum of thirty two pounds like money, equal to 80 dollars, and the farther sum of to the same persons respectively, to be computed at the rate of two dollars a week from the time of their being prisoners until their board was paid by the public.

That a farther sum of money, in specie, equal to one thousand four hundred and ninety three pounds, New York currency, equal to 3732½ dollars, be put in the hands of the commissary general of prisoners, for the purpose of levelling all the officers, agreeably to the different terms of their captivity, to the end that each individual may, according to his circumstances, participate of an equal share of the public provision.

And whereas it has been represented to Congress, that a farther sum of money is requisite for all the officers in captivity, as well those who have been lately captured as those who have been in that situation for any length of time, for the purposes of paying their board, purchasing clothing and other necessaries; therefore,

Resolved, That the sum of twelve thousand four hundred and sixty three pounds like currency, in specie, equal to 31,157½ dollars, be advanced to the commissary general of prisoners, which he be directed to distribute among all the officers in captivity; and that the consideration of any farther allowance or comparative preference be postponed to some future period.

P. S. The Board beg leave to observe that there are still some few unhappy men in captivity who will not be provided for in the foregoing report. These are Citizens taken in different parts of the country—not in arms, and though the Board do not think they ought to be provided for out of the Continental Treasury, yet they conceive it would be highly expedient to recommend to the different States, of which they are subjects, to pay proper attention to their situation and sufferings.¹

Ordered, That the Board of Treasury be directed to report with all convenient speed the ways and means of furnishing the foregoing sums.

Ordered, That the postscript of the report from the Board of War be re-committed, and that the Board be directed to report a proper mode of supporting the prisoners therein described by the commissary of prisoners.

Another report from the Board of War was read; Whereupon,

At a Board of War April 20 1780

Present Col Pickering Mr Peters Col Grayson

Mr Pintard has reminded the board of an application, made by the Enemy's comm of prisoners, to have an Agent to reside within some of the parts of the United States not in possession of the British army, to take the charge of providing for their prisoners in the same manner Mr Pintard is permitted to do in New York, with respect to the American prisoners. The Board conceive such an Agent should be permitted, and to have similar powers and treatment with Mr Pintard.

The application for this Agent should however, come from the Commander in Chief of the British forces, And we therefore beg leave to report.

Resolved, That General Washington be empowered, when properly applied to for that purpose, to authorize an agent or commissary of prisoners, appointed by the enemy, to are ready and willing to afford the most vigorous assistance. It is unnecessary to mention our embarrassments. They are known to you. To the means of relieving them we wish your attention.

The member, to whom was committed the letter to the states to re-draught the same brought in another draught, which was read and agreed to, as follows; viz.

The whole of the monies due on the quotas of taxes to the first of March last, are become of immediate and indispensable necessity. Numerous debts have accumulated on the public departments, and justice requires they should be forthwith discharged. Large sums are also requisite for the purposes of transportation, and to continue the purchases of supplies for the army until the states are prepared to furnish them. On these quotas drafts are now making, and must continue to be made to the whole amount, nor can a doubt be admitted of their being punctually answered. If any State should be unprepared, if the collections are incomplete, not a moment is to be lost. Delay will be disappointment, and may involve consequences too interesting, too fatal, to be hazarded. Should the public operations, through languor and inattention, be retarded and stopped; should those exertions, which have hitherto rendered this contest conspicuous to the world, be intermitted, the fairest prospects and the most promising occasion may be irretrievably lost. Urge, therefore, the instant execution of every measure which has been adopted, and the speedy adoption of such as yet remain to be taken.

The specific supplies required by the resolutions of the 25th of February last, will forthwith become matter of equal urgency and importance. These must be relied on in future, as the principal, not to say the only resource from which the army is to be supported. From the obvious propriety of adopting the mode there described, as best suited to the ease and convenience of the respective states, as making a just apportionment of the burthens of the war, and as necessary for correcting abuses in the expenditure of public money, Congress have the fullest confidence that the measure will be approved and successful, and by seasonably and amply providing for the army, enable them to act and co-operate as circumstances may require, with vigor and decision, through the ensuing campaign.

The resources of our country, even after a five years obstinate and wasting war, are still abundant; and, in articles the most essential, scarcely impaired. The spirit of the people is free to produce them. All that is wanting is an established medium of negotiation to be applied in effecting it. Such we are firmly persuaded will be secured by a proper attention to the resolutions of the 18th of March last, from which, as the object is not confined to the purchase of public supplies only, but extends to the various transactions of the community, the most extensive benefits may be justly expected.

The crisis calls for exertion. Much is to be done in a little time. And every motive that can stimulate the mind of man presents itself to view. No period has occurred in this long and glorious struggle, in which lassitude and indecision could be so destructive; and on the other hand, no conjuncture has been more favorable to great and deciding efforts.

We detain you no longer than to mention the necessity of early and frequent communications on the subjects of this address; and to remind you how much they contribute, on all occasions, to the success of arrangements for the public safety.¹

The President informed the House that he had received a letter from the Board of War which required immediate attention; Whereupon, the letter was read and referred to the Board of Treasury.

WAR OFFICE April 25 1780

Sir,

The Board have the honor of laying the enclosed letters before Congress. The information contained in them agrees with our accounts from all quarters. We are under the most serious apprehensions that it will be impossible for the troops ordered to the southward to proceed on their march. We do not find that any provision is made for the purpose, nor can it be done without cash. We have written to the Governors of Maryland and Virginia in the most pressing terms to assist in the transportation of the troops, but have not the most flattering prospects from the effects of our applications. We have given every direction and taken every measure depending on us, and thought it our duty to inform Congress of the state of the business.¹

Mr. [George] Plater, a delegate from Maryland, then laid before Congress a resolve of the assembly of that State, granting licence to Mr. John Hunt to proceed to Great Britain and return with Mrs. Ridley and family, by the way of New York, or otherways; and requesting "the Honorable Congress to grant their passport to protect Mr. Hunt and Mrs. Ridley and family, and effects, from capture by any vessel of war, privateer, or letter of marque belonging to the United States, or any of them, or to any subject of the United States," &c.

Whereupon,

On motion of Mr. [George] Plater, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] Burke,

Resolved, That the request of the assembly of Maryland be complied with; and that the President be authorised to grant letters of protection accordingly.²

April, 1780

Congress resumed the consideration of the report of the committee respecting loan office certificates; and some time being spent thereon:

Treasury Office April 22. 1780

The Board of Treasury on the appeal of Major General Benedict Arnold from the report of the Commissioners of the Chamber of Accounts and submission thereon to Congress referred to the said Board report

That they have carefully examined all the matters of grievance complained of by the said Major Gen' Arnold as contained in the report of the said Commissioners and caused witnesses to be examined on interrogatories stated as well on the part of the said Major Gen' Arnold as on the part of the said Commissioners in behalf of the United States, and also have heard the said Major Gen' Arnold in support of his appeal: upon full and mature consideration of all which they find

That the sum of Sixty six thousand six hundred and seventy one and twelve nineintiths dollars stated by the said Commissioners as the monies received by the said Major Gen' Arnold while he served on the expedition in Canada is justly placed to his debit—

That the credit the said Commissioners have stated of the sum of One thousand and ninety four pounds four shillings, and of fourteen thousand five hundred and four pounds two shillings and seven pence half penny are payments and advances made by the General to sundry persons, who if he is credited by them must be charged and accountable to the United States

That the credit of the sum of three thousand two hundred and ninety six pounds three shillings and four pence half penny for sundry provisions clothing &c purchased for the use of the Troops is, for any thing that appears to the Board a just credit. Also the credit of four hundred and sixteen pounds sixteen shillings and six pence the amount of the Pay Roll of Savages

Also of Eight hundred pounds for Brigantine Peggy and One hundred and ten pounds sixteen shillings for such part of her cargo as was taken for public use

That Gen' Arnold's claims for twenty five horses at ten pounds each amounting to two hundred and fifty pounds Four hundred and eighty five bushels oats, thirty six pounds. Hay, six pounds, part of the said cargo which he alleges ought to have been allowed to his credit does not appear to be supported by testimony sufficient to warrant a charge of them as having been taken for the use of the United States and therefore ought to be considered as incidental damages, and referred to such general provisions as may be made in future for losses under that description.

That in the aforesaid sum of fourteen thousand, five hundred and four pounds five shillings and seven pence half penny is included a sum of One thousand pounds stated by the General to have been paid to John Halstead Commissary of Provisions on the aforesaid Expedition which sum the said John Halstead denies having received, and refuses to account for unless the General can produce his receipt.
The Board being of opinion that the said sum could not be placed to the credit of the General unless vouchers sufficient to make the said John Halstead accountable to the United States were produced and deposited, did require the same to be produced. Whereupon the General alleged that he had lodged such vouchers in the Treasury Office, and upon searching for the same some time afterwards it was not to be found. He therefore suggested that the voucher was lost in the Treasury Office or taken away by Mr Geddes one of the Commissioners of Accounts who had had access to the Files which contained the General's papers.

The Board upon examining into the depositions taken respecting the said allegations and suggestions do not find any proof that such voucher ever was lodged in the Treasury all the testimonies relating thereto amounting to no more than very vague and light presumptions, and they find positive proof that the said Wm Geddes having at the request of the aforesaid John Halstead brought the Files containing the General's papers from the Chamber in which the Treasury Office is held to another Chamber in the same house did immediately examine and search the said Files in presence of the witnesses for a receipt or other voucher to support the said charge of one thousand pounds, but none such could be found. The Board therefore cannot find the least ground for admitting the truth of the suggestion that the voucher was taken away by the said William Geddes, and upon the whole are of opinion that the said sum be not placed to the credit of the General on the present settlement, but that he be not precluded from recovering the same whenever he shall deposit sufficient vouchers for making the said John Halstead accountable to the United States.
April, 1780

That the claim of Table expences which the General charges under an idea of his having commanded in a separate Department while at Montreal, on the Lakes, and at Providence altho' no special Resolution of Congress can be found to warrant such claim in favor of the General yet as his service was always active, and his command important and as his Rank and Command necessarily involved him in Table Expences, and as other Officers in circumstances not more strongly supporting the Equity of such allowance have received the same under special resolutions of Congress the Board are of opinion that General Arnold's Table Expences should be allowed to the same extent with those of Gen' How and other Officers to wit, One hundred and twenty five dollars per month while a Brigadier, and one hundred sixty dollars while a Major General in a separate command, agreeably to the following State—Six months at Montreal—Five months on the Lakes—One month in Providence as Brigadier—Nine months in Philadelphia as Major General

That as to the Claim for Forage rations while the General was in Canada as it appears in proof that the General was not supplied from the public magazines, it is just that he be allowed the same at their real value, which he states to be Nine Pound p' month, and as it amounts to no more than one shilling per day for each horse, which an officer of his Rank is allowed, appears to be reasonable

That as to Rations of all kinds where there were proper Officers to issue them the United States have only to settle such accounts with the said Issuers who are accountable for all the supplies that come to their hands, and are not warranted in issuing any greater quantity to any officer than he is entitled to by the Resolutions of Congress—therefore that such ought not to be considered as proper articles of Debit or Credit with Gen' Arnold as an accountant to the United States.

That for all claims on account of pay, and pay as an allowance for Table Expences, the General be referred for settlement to the Pay Master General, and for all claims on account of Rations of Provisions and Forage, except forage while in Canada, to the Commissary General of Issues, and Quarter Master General at the respective times of their arising

Finally, the Board concur in opinion with the Commissioners of accounts that General Arnold's accounts and vouchers be re-examined by the Commiss' of Accounts at Albany, and that the present settlement be subject to such corrections and amendments as they

The delegates from the State of Virginia laid before Congress a remonstrance from the assembly of that State, dated December 14th, 1779, which was read.

Treasury Office April 28, 1780

The Board of Treasury humbly represent—
That the demands from the Quarter Master's Department from every movement of the Troops are in the highest degree enormous and from the difficulties which the officers of the Department represent it must be presumed that no previous provision has been made for such contingencies, and that no stores are on hand for supplying any of the Requisites for the ensuing Campaign or the necessary movements of any detachments of the Army.

This appears the more extraordinary as the sum of 78,726,176 dollars remains to be accounted for by the Quarter Master General, and since the 12th of November last the sum of 16,022,604 dollars has been advanced to that department.

The Board further beg leave to represent—
That the sum of 1,691,388 dollars in warrants on the following persons, to wit:

has been advanced for the purpose of expediting the March of the Maryland Troops ordered to the Southward—notwithstanding all which it appears from the letter from the Board of War of the 23rd instant, and its inclosures referred to this Board, that the necessary arrangements for their March have not been made nor can be made without further supplies of Money.

The Board of Treasury find it impossible to comply with such enormous demands as are made upon them, and have no hopes that any supplies which can be advanced to the present officers of that Department will enable the Troops on their march to the Southward to fulfill their orders.

They therefore beg leave to recommend—

That the Board of War be directed to nominate to Congress some persons to be employed for procuring the supplies, in the Quarter Master department, necessary for the Troops on their March to the Southward, to whom the monies for that purpose may be advanced.\(^1\) on oath, to the judge of the admiralty of the State to which you belong, or in which you arrive, within twenty days after your arrival, bring into port, to a commissary of prisoners nearest the place of their landing, or into the nearest county goal.
